U.S. Agents Captured By Cubans

Canadians Among Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro says Cuba has captured several U.S. Intelligence Agents, including two Canadians, and they face possible death sentence.

The Cuban premier, addressing his country by radio and television from Havana Wednesday night, accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of systematically raiding Cuba. He said the CIA used several vessels including one based at West Palm Beach, Fla., which he described in detail.

NAMES CANADIANS
Castro named the Canadians as Ronald Patrick Lee and William David Mean. He said they were captured after bringing in 18 cans of explosives concealed inside foam rubber.

He charged the two arrested Canadians with trying to get through customs with canned food, grenades and other explosives.

LANDED PLANES
The Canadians, Castro said, piloted a Canadian commercial plane that landed at Havana airport Oct. 24.

The premier showed his television audience incendiary grenades he said were found inside cans the Canadians transported. The grenades, he said, would stick to any metal object and the containers were labelled as fruit preserves, made in the United States.

Castro declared: "This is the aid the United States government is sending Cuba for the hurricane."

Plomer Charges Not Dismissed

EDMONTON (UPI)—Conservative MP Marcel Lambert Wednesday denied that charges made by former navy commander Commodore James Plomer were dismissed by the Commons defence committee.

In a letter published in the Edmonton Journal, Mr. Lambert said "violent exception was taken" to the story by members of the committee.

"No such decision was arrived at," said Mr. Lambert.

Population Passes 19,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population reached an estimated 19,021,000 at Oct. 1 for an increase in one year of 335,000 or 1.8 per cent.

Ontario led the way in numerical growth—117,000—while British Columbia, Alberta and Newfoundland scored the top percentage increases—all 2.5 per cent. B.C.'s population is now 1,768,000.

Ottawa Weighs Fish Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—The health and fisheries departments are considering legislation to ban the sale of smoked fish packed in sealed containers unless rendered sterile by heat, Fisheries Minister Robichaud said Wednesday.

He told the Commons in reply to a question from former fisheries minister J. Angus Maclean that there is evidence to suggest that packing smoked fish in impermeable plastic wrappers increases the risk of botulism poisoning.

NINE U.S. DEATHS
There had been no illnesses in Canada in the last three years from this source, Mr. Robichaud said. However, in that period there were nine deaths and a number of non-fatal illnesses in the United States.

The U.S. government issued a warning about smoked fish products from the Great Lakes. Mr. Robichaud said Canadian consumers should be informed that cooking destroys the toxic substance.

Treasure Spotted?

BAD AUSSEE, Austria
(AP)—Underwater television cameras trained on the bed of Lake Toplitz Tuesday spotted large masses of metal believed to be Second World War German Army trucks loaded with treasure.

Banks Refuses to Comment On SIU Walkout Reports

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal C. Banks, president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), refused to comment Wednesday night on a reported walkout of SIU members from Canadian ships in United States ports.

The walkout was reported Wednesday night by the Detroit Free Press but the captain of a Canadian ship in Detroit Harbor later said there had been no walkout from his ship.

HAVEN'T HEARD
"I haven't heard of any walkouts of any of the Canadian ships," said Captain James Patterson of the Baygeorge in a marine telephone interview. The ship is operated by the Baywater Shipping Company Limited of Brockville, Ont.

"I just have no comment to make," Mr. Banks said Wednesday night.

FIVE UNIONS
Mr. Justice Victor L. Dwyer, chairman of the federal trusteeship which has taken over five Canadian maritime unions including the SIU, said he hadn't heard of the SIU walkout.

"We'll have to see about that tomorrow," Mr. Justice Dwyer said in a telephone interview. He said the trustees were to meet with the SIU executive today.

NDP Wins Yale

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—A judicial recount has reversed the Sept. 30 provincial election result in Yale constituency and given an election victory to New Democratic Party candidate William Hartley over Social Credit incumbent Irvine Corbett.

County Court Judge F. K. Grimmer said last night the recount gave Mr. Hartley 1,807 votes compared with 1,801 for Mr. Corbett.

Mr. Corbett immediately announced he would appeal.

Customer Unhappy

Compleat Interior Decorator

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—For a painter claiming 20 years' experience, Willie Hurst of nearby River Canard did an "incredibly bad job" for Mrs. Dorcas Brown, also of River Canard.

He was hired to paint the interior of Mrs. Brown's house, and did just that.

Included were walls, floors, ceilings, two chesterfields, a bed spread, the freezer, washer, drier, drapes, bedroom dresser, wall-to-wall carpeting in one room, two closets and a kitchen pot.

After two days of listening to both sides of the story in magistrate's court, Judge Lawrence Dezell Wednesday awarded Mrs. Brown $500 damages.

She sued for $3,000, but testimony disclosed less damage was caused.

Hurst started work Feb. 17 of 1962 after Mrs. Brown paid him a $200 deposit. Mrs. Brown said each time she tried to stop the painter he told her she was seeing only a half-finished job.

"The quality of the work done by the defendant was incredibly bad," Judge Dezell said. In answer to Hurst's counter-claim against Mrs. Brown for payment of the balance owing him for the job the magistrate said: "It would appear that what he has already received is substantially more than the work is worth."

Miners Face Longest Night

PEINE, Germany (UPI)—Three miners, trapped 262 feet underground since last Thursday, learned Wednesday they must spend at least another night in their subterranean prison.

"It's so we can get you out safe and well," rescue workers told the trapped men through a telephone line. After a pause of obvious disappointment, rescuers heard the men reply, "Oh... okay... that's okay."

Drilling had been stopped in the two 25-inch rescue shafts which have been steadily driving down to their underground chamber while necessary precautionary measures were completed.

The drilling was stopped at 190 feet and most of the day was spent fitting steel tubing inside the shafts. At nightfall, rescue workers poured cement around the pipe to make a water-proof shield and prevent underground water seeping into the holes.

Only when all this work has been completed can the drilling of the final 65 feet begin. Mine officials said it would be late today or probably early Friday before the men can be brought out.

Saanich Inlet Tragedy

BOATING TRIP ENDS IN DEATH

Arthur Hemming

A 62-year-old Mill Bay man was found dead near his overturned boat on the west shore of Saanich Inlet at 7:30 a.m. yesterday.

Arthur Geydon Hemming, a civilian stationary engineer at the navy establishment at Colwood, was last seen alive by neighbors at dusk Tuesday.

"He was probably going out fishing for an hour or so," his son-in-law James Jarvis said last night. "He was due at work in Colwood at midnight."

ABOUT 12 HOURS

Three Bamberton cement works employees, arriving for work by water from Saanich, found the boat with the body nearby at the shoreline one-third of a mile south of Bamberton. Police said the body had been in the water about 12 hours.

Cause of death was thought to be exposure or drowning. Duncan coroner Dr. J. S. Goodbrand said an inquiry will be held.

ARM LOOPE

When Mr. Hemming was found he had one arm looped through the bowline of the boat, police said.

A net, lifejacket and other contents were underneath the 10-foot fibreglass carport boat or floating in the water.

A three-horsepower motor was still attached to the boat and an oar lay on the shore above it.

TIDE RECEDED

Police believe the boat may have drifted ashore at high tide, caught on a rock and overturned as the tide receded.

The Hemmings moved to the Mill Bay waterfront from Victoria about three months ago.

Mr. Hemming was born in Leamington, England, and came to Canada at the age of six with his family. They lived in the east until 1909 when they moved to Alberni.

LOST IT IN FIRE

Mr. Hemming had his own sawmill there but lost it in a fire at the start of the depression. He came to Victoria in the 30's and worked for Crowe-Gonnason Lumber Co. until he went to the defence department about 10 years ago.

He was an enthusiastic hockey fan and loved camping and fishing.

SURVIVORS

Survivors are the widow, Beatrice; three daughters, Mrs. June Jarvis, 4029 Carey; Mrs. Laurin Grant, Queen's, and Maureen. Coquitlam; three grandchildren and his mother, Mrs. Violet Hemming, 3050 Chown Place in Victoria.

"We just finished celebrating his mother's 88th birthday," Mr. Jarvis said. "We were looking forward to seeing him again this weekend. His wife had gone to Queen's to visit their daughter there."

French Rocket 310 Miles Up

PARIS (UPI)—France announced Wednesday it fired a two-stage Dragon rocket 310 miles into space in a test conducted at its proving grounds on the Sahara desert. The missile weighed 2,205 pounds.

Alliance Saves Liberals

OTTAWA (CP)—A surprise Conservative move to kill key tax proposals in the government's economic program was blocked Wednesday by a voting alliance of Liberals, New Democrats, Social Creditors and Creditors.

It was the 10th roll-call vote in the Commons on which the minority Liberal government has staked its life in a test of non-confidence.

FORCED VOTE

Former Finance Minister George Nowlan forced the vote by trying to halt second reading—approval in principle—of a government measure implementing the tax proposals announced by Finance Minister Gordon in his June 13 budget.

City Police, Firemen Save Man

Firemen and police joined forces early this morning to rescue an injured soldier jammed on the side of a downtown building about 40 feet from the ground.

First reports said a man had fallen from the Yates Hotel, and needed help.

Police turned out, to find a man had fallen from a ledge about 50 feet above the ground on the Oddfellows' Hall, 1323 Douglas. He was jammed 12 feet below the ledge with his leg caught between a pipe and the wall. Police said he was screaming for help.

A firetruck was called out to assist, and the soldier was freed, carried to safety, and rushed to Naden Hospital, apparently suffering a broken ankle.

Police had no details at press time, but expect to question the soldier later today.

Impaired But Not Immobile

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—There are some things alcohol can't impair.

Harold R. Stark, 63, of Oshawa was fined $100 Tuesday for impaired driving, but police testified he passed one of their sobriety tests with ease.

Although he failed to walk a straight line, he did well at picking up coins from the police station floor. "How come?" asked Magistrate Harry Jermyn. "Well," replied Stark, "I'm a Scotsman."

Canada to Have Flag Before World's Fair

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will have a national flag before the world's fair is held in Montreal in 1967, the centenary of Confederation, Prime Minister Pearson assured the Commons.

Gerard Laprise (Creditiste—Chapleau) noted a world's fair flag was raised Tuesday on the island site and asked if a Canadian flag would be adopted in time for the fair.

Dope Hold Broken In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Twelve persons were arrested Tuesday night, cracking what federal investigators said was a $10,000,000-a-year narcotics ring which controlled 80 per cent of the dope traffic in Chicago. Most of the narcotics were smuggled through Canada.

Among those arrested was a reputed headman of the Chicago (Cosa Nostra) "family," Americo (Pete) DePietro.

VALUED AT $17,500

Charles Ward, chief of the Chicago office of the federal narcotics bureau, said 35 ounces of heroin estimated at $17,500 was seized in the arrests.

Ward said the arrests, which he described as the most important narcotics seizures in Chicago history, came after a grand jury returned 41 suppressed indictments naming 41 persons with narcotics violations.

BAKED IN $30,000,000

The ring, which Ward said was controlled by Cosa Nostra, had raked in more than $30,000,000 in narcotics sales since 1960.

Ward said DePietro, a resident of suburban Lombard, is the "narcotics officer" of the Chicago Cosa Nostra "family," and answers only to reputed crime boss Momo Salvatore (Moe) Giancana.

11 Accused Still in Jail Though Charges Quashed

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI)—The presiding judge Wednesday quashed as vague and embarrassing the indictment of 11 men accused of sabotage in a case condemned by the United Nations.

But the defendants—four whites, six Africans and one Indian—were re-arrested immediately and held as suspects until a new indictment could be drawn up.

The trial had opened Tuesday, but court president Q. de Wet threw out the indictment when the trial resumed yesterday.

Moon Bid Cancels Four Flights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four scheduled flights by U.S. astronaut team were cancelled Wednesday in what was officially described as a move to save money and speed up other phases of the attempt to put men on the moon.

The deleted flights, which were to have begun early in 1965, had been aimed at putting three men Apollo spacecraft, powered by Saturn I rockets, in low orbit around the earth.

Death Was in Their Hands

Probers Find Hospital Staff Didn't Wash

TORONTO (UPI)—The Ontario Hospital Association was told yesterday a food poisoning epidemic that killed two patients probably could have been avoided if the staff in a general hospital had washed their hands.

The report of two University of Toronto hygiene researchers said "It would appear a little more attention to the most primitive fundamentals of personal hygiene could have prevented two deaths and four very serious illnesses."

The researchers, Dr. W. Harding Le Riche and Carol Balcom, did not identify the hospital in their statement to the association's annual meeting.

There seems to be no question that the disease was in most instances spread by the hands of ward personnel in their travels from patient to patient," the report said.

Miss Balcom, a registered nurse, said a survey she conducted with Dr. Le Riche showed a "slow but steady increase" in infections spread in hospitals.

She said during the survey she and the doctor found unsterilized instruments, dirty bandage carts, and bedside equipment shared by several patients.

"On surgical ward rounds in one hospital," she said, "several patients were seen and examined by physicians and hands were not washed before, during or after rounds."

Spy Charges

Red Trio Asked To Leave U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United States has demanded that three men in the Soviet United Nations delegation leave the U.S. by Friday afternoon on grounds they had taken part in a spy plot.

In a note to the Soviet delegation called for their "immediate departure." A U.S. delegation spokesman said "immediate" in diplomatic language, usually means 48 hours.

Those arrested are Igor A. Ivanov of New York City, chauffeur for the Soviet trading agency Amtorg, and John William Butenko of Orange, N.J., control administrator for the International Electronic Corporation of Paramus, N.J.

The three Soviet delegation members were named with Ivanov and Butenko in an FBI complaint, but Olev was never in custody.

Pavlov and Romashin were picked up with Ivanov and Butenko.

LONDON (AP)—London Airport was heavily guarded Tuesday for the arrival of Russian gold shipments estimated at 10 tons, worth about $10,920,000 in U.S. currency. The gold was reported flown here for sale on the London market to raise Western currencies to pay for Moscow's big wheat imports.

NATO Dissension

DURING the past week the practicability of NATO as the free world's most effective military defence against potential Communist aggression has been seriously questioned by at least three of its major member nations.

The most direct and outspoken critic of NATO's present policy is the government of France. In a public statement Tuesday French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said that the whole structure of the Western alliance was dangerously out of date and needed an immediate and sweeping reorganization.

It was, he said, because of NATO's determination to continue in its outmoded setup that President de Gaulle had withdrawn the bulk of French land, sea and air forces from its command.

Rounding out his attack on the alliance, the French spokesman challenged the remaining European members to follow France's action if they held out any hope for NATO to be reformed on a durable basis.

Unquestionably the official French view of the over-all policy of NATO will receive considerable support among many of the 15 nations making up the alliance, though the majority will not fail to recognize that France's attitude is largely brought about by de Gaulle's unrelenting desire to assume the economic and military leadership of Europe.

However, France's outburst against NATO was not the only occurrence of the week to undermine the Western alliance. Considerable doubts as to Britain's future role in NATO were raised when Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home saw fit to declare publicly that the U.S. Polaris missiles to be acquired by the United Kingdom under the Nassau agreement would come under sole British control, and would be used by Britain independently only when and if the life of the country was in danger.

The potential military power of NATO was further weakened this week when Canadian Defence Minister Paul Hellyer made his final decision to cancel the frigate construction program initiated by the previous administration to fulfill Canada's commitment to the Atlantic Alliance.

The combined action and words of Canada, France and Britain—all leading members of NATO—obviously require rapid action on the part of both NATO's high command and council of ministers if it is to maintain its position as an operational and efficient force.

Meanwhile the continuing dissension and breach of commitments will bring great comfort to the Kremlin.

Unstable Situation

MR. Pearson must thank his stars that the opposition he faces in Parliament is divided, four ways now that the Creditist group is recognized as a separate party. This keeps his minority government in office despite its proved incapacity.

MPs often say one thing in debate and then vote in a manner that contradicts their arguments. This is nothing new but the habit is sharply underlined by present fears of another election. None of the members wants to risk his $18,000 seat again if this can possibly be avoided.

Hence the jockeying that takes place when non-confidence motions come to the vote, inducing even splits in opposition party ranks.

On Tuesday it seemed that the Pearson regime might go down to defeat; two non-confidence motions on a subject in which the government was overwhelmingly in disfavor betokened its demise. But the combined opposition managed to wriggle out of the situation it had of itself created.

All four of the opposition groups condemned the government high, wide and handsomely for its nuclear agreement with the United States, but when it came to the pinch they manoeuvred to swallow their words and sustain the Liberals in office.

The Creditist motion wasn't backed by the Conservatives because they didn't like its wording; the Conservative motion was rejected because, apparently, the other opposition groups didn't like the Conservatives, period. All of them, it is a fair guess, liked the idea of an another election even less.

The country at large probably views another election with no great enthusiasm, but it must be beginning to wonder how long this state of affairs should be allowed to go on. The nation is not well served by a government or an opposition which puts fear of another election above the verities of all else. Opposition groups in particular also must be feeling uncomfortable, since their actions so often deny their stated views.

Nine times now the Pearson administration has survived non-confidence votes during its six months of office. Mr. Pearson has been lucky in that the opposition disagrees among itself even more than it disagrees with government policies. But even he must conclude that this unstable situation cannot last much longer.

Hansard Titbits

Inside Job

MR. L. J. Pigeon (Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm): Mr. Speaker, I should like to direct a question to the venerable Postmaster General. Could the minister tell the House whether he is aware of the $40,000 robbery which occurred yesterday and whether, by any chance, the name of the culprit would be on the list of privileged persons?

Hon. Azellus Denis (Postmaster General): Mr. Speaker, I am aware of the robbery, but it is certainly not the member for Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm who did it because he was here yesterday.

Mr. Pigeon: I have a supplementary question, Mr. Speaker. Could the minister inform the House of the steps that are being considered by his officials or himself to prevent those robberies which are getting to be more numerous since the present government took over?

Mr. Denis: Mr. Speaker, it was under the Conservatives that robberies were numerous. Now, robberies are due to the shipping of money from the banks. Consequently, we have taken up the matter with bank representatives to find a solution.

Mr. T. C. Douglas (Burnaby-Coquitlam): Can I ask the Postmaster General if he knows who is responsible for the theft of his carefully guarded list of consultants?

Mr. Knowles: That was an inside job.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and scaling waxes..."
By TOM TAYLOR

SOME people collect stamps, some match folders, some sea shells—and some, apparently, nails.

A note from the JUK information centre in Vancouver tells me that a million Roman nails dug up in Britain three years ago have gone out all over the world.

Some went free to museums, others went at a price to thousands of individuals who want to own at least one of these relics of the past. They will pin them to the walls of their nurseries, maybe, suitably inscribed, with the dutiful pride of the collector.

The Romans are believed to have left this cache behind when they withdrew from the land they named Britannia.

A Hollywood-style movie producer in Calgary, about to make a film in that area about the Douchobors, says "authentically means nothing unless it's a news item or a documentary."

Presumably the picture in prospect will in the main be fictional.

It's worth remembering this when you see a film dealing with historical characters or events that is not cited as a documentary. It's like a novel, wherein the author manipulates his theme to suit the dramatic or entertaining purpose he has in mind.

Even a so-called "realistic" novel, or one designed to illumine social conditions, is made to believe larger than life and isn't to be accepted as gospel.

Nor is this detrimental to either the writing or the celluloid craft, although the licence employed may give rise to some erroneous conclusions.

Coincidental with the opening here of the "Lawrence of Arabia" film comes word that the railway line the hero of this epic blew up is to be rebuilt.

It has taken an awful long time to repair it; the pilgrims to Mecca must have had a wearying journey these past 50 years.

This was the line from Damascus to Medina which Lawrence and his Arab forces cut time and again in their Hejaz campaign against the Turks during the First World War. But after all they only blew up sections of it, not its entire length by any means.

The Lawrence film is said to be a masterpiece, albeit Lawrence's brother objected that it distorted the character of the real Lawrence.

But for most of those who see it this will be the Lawrence they think of in future. As with the legend Shakespeare invented when he changed history by having Macbeth murder Duncan in bed, so will the Lawrence film create a lasting impression.

But by all accounts it's photographically magnificent.

The Homes will not down. A note from a reader informs me that he too remembers the British prime minister's family as Home, not Hume.

He was a stable groom with Sir Alec's grandfather on his Lanarkshire estate and knew the PM's aunts, great lovers of horses, quite well. He helped get the horses ready for the wedding of Sir Alec's father in London, and for the home-coming at Douglas Castle.

And he never then heard the name Home pronounced.

He doesn't like the change, either.

I have seen women soldiers who put their male counterparts to shame with their bearing and precision of step. But I must confess I've never thought much about women sailors.

Since all the nice girls love a sailor, of course, it's quite in order that they should become sailors too.

At any rate the local Wrenette Corps, you would notice, has just walked away with the highest efficiency trophy in the whole country, and is now an authorized official unit.

Good for you, girls, I'd doff my sailor cap to you if I had one.

The navy's been having troubles in Ottawa lately; perhaps they should invite our corps down there to show everyone how.

The Cooling Off of Real Caouette

By RICHARD JACKSON

SOMETHING happened to Quebec Creditist Real Caouette. The ramping edge of his voice has been blunted and he no longer blazes at the top of his so-recently amazing lungs. Nor does he make those wildly acrobatic speeches bathed in that astonishing mist of fine perspiration with which he used to spray his audience for five feet in all directions.

That once almost frightening hot resentment of just-about-everything has cooled. It may be that the fire has gone out in the man.

It was almost with a whimper that he accepted his downgrading to Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson.

Perhaps it was that he was content that while Thompson had the honor of leading the fourth-ranking party in the Commons, it was an empty one.

For he, as low man on Parliament's political totem pole, leading the fifth and last-ranking party in the House, while denied the honor, would enjoy the more tangible benefit of drawing the $4,000 in special allowances paid the leaders of groups of 12 or more.

The new, tamed Caouette remains one over the financially magic $4,000 number with his 13 Creditists, and Robert Thompson one under with his 11 Socreds.

But the old fire-breathing Caouette of only a year ago would have scorned playing, as it has been called, "this numbers game," and for such paltry stakes as $4,000.

The honor and the glory, the power and prestige would have been all that mattered.

Remember the Caouette of just last fall?

Swaggering, arrogant, politically 10 feet tall. Master of the Commons with 26 Creditists plus Thompson's four Socreds, and holding the club of the balance of power over the head of the minority Dielenbaker government.

Those must have been great days for Real Caouette. Daily he was consulted by the 130 political correspondents populating the Parliamentary Press Gallery.

What did he say? How did he think? Would he vote for or against the government? Where did he stand on this question and that issue?

Caouette held court almost like a king.

And how he may have been courted, both by the then reigning Conservatives and the power-hungry Liberals, only rival party House leaders and wheel-dealers Jack Pickersgill of the Grits and Gordon Churchill of the Tories know. And they are not telling.

It got so that he began handing down pronouncements on domestic policy and world affairs and issuing ultimatums to the government.

This was heady stuff. He even reached the point of looking over the shoulder of the minister of finance and telling him what was "acceptable" and what wouldn't be tolerated in the conduct of the nation's fiscal affairs.

Fortunately, former Conservative Finance Minister George Newlan was a wise old political statesman with a sense of humor able to give Real Caouette the impression of paying him more than passing mind, while privately enjoying the utter ridiculousness of the situation.

That was a year ago when Real Caouette was breaking and making prime ministers, or so he, and a lot of other people thought.

Now, almost nobody—perhaps even not Real Caouette himself—really cares anymore what he thinks or says or does.

He simply doesn't count.

Perhaps that's why he was such a tamed and even bent, if not broken figure when he finally meekly, though respectfully, submitted to being seated at the foot of the Commons class.

You hear talk, none of it denied even by his friends, that Real Caouette's post-election collapse did irreparable things to his health. Under the pressure, something gave, and he hasn't been the same man, physically or emotionally, since.

British-European Relations

By ELIZABETH BARKER from London

SHORTLY after taking office, Britain's new prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, said that the British must keep their contacts with the European Economic Community as close as possible.

And the first task which the new foreign secretary, Mr. Butler, undertook was to represent Britain at the meeting of ministers of the Western European Union in The Hague.

It is clear that the question of Britain's relationship with Europe remains today, as it has been in the past, one of the most vital strands of British foreign policy.

Since the Second World War, the British have been trying, by one method or another, to hold the seven nations together in spite of temporary differences or divisions. It was all the more regrettable when, from April 1962 onwards, WEU ministerial meetings had to be suspended because of French opposition.

When the breakdown of the Brussels negotiations put a damper on the hope of Britain's entry into the European Communities, it was natural that some of the Six, together with Britain, should look to WEU as one of the best methods of maintaining contact, particularly in the field of political consultation. For some months, however, the French government remained hesitant; it was not until last July that agreement was reached among the Six that regular consultation in WEU should be restarted, not only in the political but also in the economic field.

The restoration of seven-power consultation in WEU is important and valuable, but it is not enough. Other contacts between Britain and the Six must be needed if their economic policies and practice are to be brought close together. Contacts on a purely technical level may also be necessary.

The British are, however, not concentrating only on their relations with the Six. They have never believed that a Europe of the Six, or of the Seven, could be an end in itself.

Britain is a founder-member of the seven-nation European Free Trade Association, which has a thriving trade on nearly the same scale as that of the Common Market. If the Brussels negotiations had not been wrecked, the final outcome would almost certainly have been the expansion and strengthening of the Common Market by the inclusion of all the EFTA nations as full or associate members, creating a community of nearly three hundred million people.

This is not now possible, but the British are continuing to work for the aim of a stronger and more united Europe, playing its proper part in world affairs.

As a British minister, Mr. Heath, said soon after the Brussels breakdown: "Our desire has always been to join wholeheartedly in the building of a wider Europe; this attitude will continue to govern our policy." He went on to speak not only of WEU, but also of the Council of Europe, NATO, and the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, as bodies through which Britain hoped to work for this end.

Yet the British believe that the building of a wider Europe, though an extremely important end in itself, must also serve other ends.

Only a strong and united Europe will be able to play its full part, as an equal partner of the United States, within the Western defence alliance. Only a strong and united Europe can join fully in the task of lessening tensions and establishing areas of agreement between the West and the Soviet bloc.

Only a strong, united Europe can give the most effective economic aid to the developing countries of the world.

The British, in working for a "wider Europe," are also working for these ends.

Preparing To Test

By MARQUIS CHILDS
from Picaune, Miss.

WHETHER the National Aeronautics and Space Agency lands a team on the moon may be problematical, but one thing is certain—the agency has landed on Mississippi.

Since the first test were bulldozed on May 18 the Mississippi Test Operations Centre has made remarkable progress. This lonely piney woods country is being transformed into a centre for testing the first and second stage engines of the Saturn V that will carry three men into outer space with the moon as the goal.

So difficult and delicate is the testing process for boosters with a 7,500,000-pound thrust in the first stage, lifting a load of many tons into space, that an area of 141,900 acres must be cleared. Part of this, 13,350 acres in the construction zone, is being acquired outright. The balance in the easement zone can be used for lumbering and other operations but all dwellings must go. The test explosions set up vibrations that are shattering to buildings not specially constructed.

By a curious set of circumstances this almost empty country with its moss-draped live oaks and great stands of pine where moonshiners were seldom troubled is becoming the focus—the next to last stage—of one of man's greatest adventures. Prior to the selection of this area between Picaune and Bay St. Louis, 23 other sites ranging all the way to Wake Island in the Pacific were surveyed.

Mississippi was chosen because it is the centre of a network of waterways. By barges on those waterways can be shipped the Stage One and Stage Two boosters which are no big that they could not move by any land route. Only 35 miles away in New Orleans is NASA's Michoud operation where Boeing, once construction is finished, will begin work on the moon ship's Stage One boosters.

It will thus be only a short haul to the static firing stands here and technicians can move between the two centres with ease. From Seal Beach in California will come by way of the Panama Canal and the Gulf of Mexico the second-stage boosters which North American Aviation is making.

Under direction of the Army Corps of Engineers 15 miles of new canals are being dredged, the Pearl River is being widened and docks to take the massive engines off specially constructed barges are already being built even though the water is still to be brought to them. A lock 800 feet long with a lift of 20 feet must be constructed.

When you see this with Navy Captain William Fortune, on special assignment to NASA to supervise the job, you have a sense of the American pride in building; in subduing the raw earth and bringing a new complex into being. If your big line dredges strike black, gummy muck that tends to harden like rock when dug out then you must find a way to get through it.

The mind of the visitor reels with facts and figures. The test stands will be the tallest structures in the state of Mississippi. All operations, including canal traffic, will be directed from a tall airport type of control tower. And on the average 72 water molecules a day are giving up their lives for this project as the dredges and the earth movers dig deeper into the woods.

The impact on Mississippi of the operation is bound to be great. The first phase of construction will cost $250,000,000 and a payroll of 1,700 persons will man the installation. NASA people have a way of talking about "first stages" as though once the landing on the moon has been successful a communist service will be established with the run anoner or later in be extended to Venus and other planets.

What the impact will be on a state in the throes of a racial crisis it is too early to say. Gov. Ross Barnett was at Gulfport recently for a NASA ceremony and in his speech devoted five minutes to the glorification of the moon and 40 minutes to the inequities of that monstrous tyranny, the federal government. When the Republican candidate for governor, Rufel Phillips, was in Picaune he issued a clarification call to get the heel of the federal government off the neck of Mississippi. It must surely be counted the most generous heel in history.

Captain Fortune's hiring policy is one of complete equality of opportunity. But since most of the jobs, aside from those in the contracting operation, call for a high degree of skill the openings for Negroes in the area are few.

The men directing this project talk not of it but of when, in the midst of an upheaval of land and water they are looking to that day in late 1968 or early 1970 when, after the static firings have proved out the boosters, the great engines will again be loaded on barges and start on the 1,064 water miles to Cape Canaveral. That will be the day before zero for the lunar journey.

NATO Dissension

DURING the past week the practicability of NATO as the free world's most effective military defence against potential Communist aggression has been seriously questioned by at least three of its major member nations.

The most direct and outspoken critic of NATO's present policy is the government of France. In a public statement Tuesday French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said that the whole structure of the Western alliance was dangerously out of date and needed an immediate and sweeping reorganization.

It was, he said, because of NATO's determination to continue in its outmoded setup that President de Gaulle had withdrawn the bulk of French land, sea and air forces from its command.

Rounding out his attack on the alliance, the French spokesman challenged the remaining European members to follow France's action if they held out any hope for NATO to be reformed on a durable basis.

Unquestionably the official French view of the over-all policy of NATO will receive considerable support among many of the 15 nations making up the alliance, though the majority will not fail to recognize that France's attitude is largely brought about by de Gaulle's unrelenting desire to assume the economic and military leadership of Europe.

However, France's outburst against NATO was not the only occurrence of the week to undermine the Western alliance. Considerable doubts as to Britain's future role in NATO were raised when Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home saw fit to declare publicly that the U.S. Polaris missiles to be acquired by the United Kingdom under the Nassau agreement would come under sole British control, and would be used by Britain independently only when and if the life of the country was in danger.

The potential military power of NATO was further weakened this week when Canadian Defence Minister Paul Hellyer made his final decision to cancel the frigate construction program initiated by the previous administration to fulfil Canada's commitment to the Atlantic Alliance.

The combined action and words of Canada, France and Britain—all leading members of NATO—obviously require rapid action on the part of both NATO's high command and council of ministers if it is to maintain its position as an operational and efficient force.

Meanwhile the continuing dissension and breach of commitments will bring great comfort to the Kremlin.

Unstable Situation

MR. Pearson must thank his stars that the opposition he faces in Parliament is divided, four ways now that the Creditiste group is recognized as a separate party. This keeps his minority government in office despite its proved incapacity.

MPs often say one thing in debate and then vote in a manner that contradicts their arguments. This is nothing new but the habit is sharply underlined by present fears of another election. None of the members wants to risk his $18,000 seat again if this can possibly be avoided.

Hence the jockeying that takes place when non-confidence motions come to the vote, inducing even splits in opposition party ranks.

On Tuesday it seemed that the Pearson regime might go down to defeat; two non-confidence motions on a subject in which the government was overwhelmingly in disfavor betokened its demise. But the combined opposition managed to wriggle out of the situation it had of itself created.

All four of the opposition groups condemned the government high, wide and handsomely for its nuclear agreement with the United States, but when it came to the pinch they manoeuvred to swallow their words and sustain the Liberals in office.

The Creditiste motion wasn't backed by the Conservatives because they didn't like its wording; the Conservative motion was rejected because, apparently, the other opposition groups didn't like the Conservatives, period. All of them, it is a fair guess, liked the idea of an another election even less.

The country at large probably views another election with no great enthusiasm, but it must be beginning to wonder how long this state of affairs should be allowed to go on. The nation is not well served by a government or an opposition which puts fear of another election above the verities of all else. Opposition groups in particular also must be feeling uncomfortable, since their actions so often deny their stated views.

Nine times now the Pearson administration has survived non-confidence votes during its six months of office. Mr. Pearson has been lucky in that the opposition disagrees among itself even more than it disagrees with government policies. But even he must conclude that this unstable situation cannot last much longer.

Inside Job

MR. L. J. Pigeon (Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm): Mr. Speaker, I should like to direct a question to the venerable Postmaster General. Could the minister tell the House whether he is aware of the $40,000 robbery which occurred yesterday and whether, by any chance, the name of the culprit would be on the list of privileged persons?

Hon. Azellus Denis (Postmaster General): Mr. Speaker, I am aware of the robbery, but it is certainly not the member for Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm who did it because he was here yesterday.

Mr. Pigeon: I have a supplementary question, Mr. Speaker. Could the minister inform the House of the steps that are being considered by his officials or himself to prevent those robberies which are getting to be more numerous since the present government took over?

Mr. Denis: Mr. Speaker, it was under the Conservatives that robberies were numerous. Now, robberies are due to the shipping of money from the banks. Consequently, we have taken up the matter with bank representatives to find a solution.

Mr. T. C. Douglas (Burnaby-Coquitlam): Can I ask the Postmaster General if he knows who is responsible for the theft of his carefully guarded list of consultants?

Mr. Knowles: That was an inside job.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships,

By TOM TAYLOR

SOME people collect stamps, some match folders, some sea shells—and some, apparently, nails.

A note from the UK information centre in Vancouver tells me that a million Roman nails dug up in Britain three years ago have gone out all over the world.

Some went free to museums, others went at a price to thousands of individuals who want to own at least one of these relics of the past. They will pin them to the walls of their rumpus rooms, maybe, suitably inscribed, with the dutiful pride of the collector.

The Romans are believed to have left this cache behind when they withdrew from the land they named Britannia.

A Hollywood-style movie producer in Calgary, about to make a film in that area about the Doolittle raid, says "authenticity means nothing unless it's a news item or a documentary."

Presumably the picture in prospect will in the main be fictional.

It's worth remembering this when you see a film dealing with historical characters or events that is not cited as a documentary. It's like a novel, wherein the author manipulates his theme to suit the dramatic or entertaining purpose he has in mind.

Even a so-called realistic novel, or one designed to illumine social conditions, is made-believe larger than life and isn't to be accepted as gospel.

Nor is this demand to either the writing or the celluloid craft, although the licence employed may give rise to some erroneous conclusions.

Coincidental with the opening here of the "Lawrence of Arabia" film comes word that the railway line the hero of this epic blew up is to be rebuilt. It has taken an awful long time to repair it; the pilgrims to Mecca must have had a wearying journey these past 50 years.

This was the line from Damascus to Medina which Lawrence and his Arab forces cut and again in their Hejaz campaign against the Turks during the First World War.

But after all they only blew up sections of it, not its entire length by any means.

The Lawrence film is said to be a masterpiece, albeit Lawrence's brother objected that it distorted the character of the real Lawrence.

But for most of those who see it this will be the Lawrence they think of in future. As with the legend Shakespeare invented when he changed history by having Macbeth murder Duncan in bed, so will the Lawrence film create a lasting impression.

But by all accounts it's photographically magnificent.

The Homes will not down. A note from a reader informs me that he too remembers the British prime minister's family as Home, not Hume.

He was a stable groom with Sir Alec's grandfather on his Lancashire estate and knew the PM's aunt, great lovers of horses, quite well. He helped get the horses ready for the wedding of Sir Alec's father in London, and for the homecoming at Douglas Castle.

And he never then heard the name Home pronounced.

He doesn't like the change, either.

I have seen women soldiers who put their male counterparts to shame with their bearing and precision of step. But I must confess I've never thought much about women sailors.

Since all the nice girls love a sailor, of course, it's quite in order that they should become sailors too.

When the Republican candidate for governor, Rufel Phillips, was in Picayune he issued a clarion call to get the neck of Mississippi. It must surely be counted the most generous heel in history.

Captain Fortune's hiring policy is one of complete equality of opportunity. But since most of the jobs, aside from those in the contracting operation, call for a high degree of skills the openings for Negroes in the area are few.

The men directing this project talk not of it but of when, in the midst of an upheaval of land and water they are looking to that day in late 1969 or early 1970 when, after the static firings have proved out the boosters, the great engines will again be loaded on barges and start on the 1,664 water miles to Cape Canaveral. That will be the day, the day of the lunar journey.

Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.—St. John, 11:25.

Growing Pains

For Tolstoy. Among thorough-fares whose names have no literary links are 19 Soviet Streets, 22 First of May Streets and 35 Park Streets.

Montreal, fortunately, has not been carried away by such ill-considered enthusiasm. The solution to Moscow's problem seems likely to be protected and should serve as a warning to other sprouting metropolitan areas. In the last two years only 100 out of 4,500 streets have been renamed to avoid confusion. On this basis, the newspaper survey has calculated that the 21st century will have begun before the situation is brought under control.

In a city close to three times the size of Greater Montreal, the street-naming department has allowed 16 streets to be named for Pushkin, 13 for Gorky, eight for Gogol and five

For some years, WEU, although it remained a useful forum for consultation, stayed quietly in the background, while the rapidly-developing WEU's original great service was to make it possible for Western Germany to enter the Western defence alliance, NATO, as a full and equal partner. The British, however, always hoped that it might have a much more creative long-term role in fostering joint European policies, not only in defence, but also in other fields.

When the breakdown of the Brussels negotiations put a sudden end to the hope of Britain's entry into the European Communities, it was natural that some of the Six, together with Britain, should look to WEU as one of the best methods of maintaining contact, particularly in the field of political consultation. For some months, however, the French government remained hesitant; it was not until last July that agreement was reached among the Six that regular consultation in WEU should be restarted, not only in the political but also in the economic field.

The restoration of seven-power consultation in WEU is important and valuable, but it is not enough. Other contacts between Britain and the Six will be needed if their economic policies and practice are to be brought close together. Contacts on a purely technical level may also be necessary.

The British are, however, not concentrating only on their relations with the Six. They have never believed that a Europe of the Six, or of the Seven, could be an end in itself. Britain is a founder-member of the seven-nation European Free Trade Association, which has a thriving trade on nearly the same scale as that of the Common Market—if the Brus-

Tough 'TV Star' 12th RCMP Boss

By BEN WARD
from Ottawa

George Brinton McClellan might easily be taken for a husky woodsman or a professional football player.

A second guess, after a closer look, would probably hit nearer the mark. A husky six-footer with bushy eyebrows and a full mustache, he looks every inch the prototype of the ace senior police inspector of TV and mystery novels.

But there's no fiction about the new commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police—Canada's No. 1 policeman.

On Friday Commissioner McClellan will move to the headquarters desk under the gigantic mounted buffalo head—traditional symbol of the force—to replace C. W. Harvison who is retiring at 62 after 3½ years in charge of the Mounties.

A veteran of 31 years with the RCMP, the 54-year-old McClellan, native of Moose Jaw, Sask., has handled almost every assignment known to the force, all the way from chasing backwoods moonshiners to the most sensitive security and undercover roles.

For the last 20 years most of his work has been in administrative posts or secret security work about which he is reluctant to talk. During the Harvison era he was second-in-command, responsible for all operational work in policing, security and criminal investigation.

He is "very proud but more than a little nervous" about becoming the 12th commissioner in the 50-year history of the red-coated force. "Almost every

Mounties' McClellan

Mountie on the day of his enlistment dreams about this appointment," he says.

Like his predecessor, the new commissioner has the rare police record of never having shot at anyone.

He has been shot at twice, however, both times on local assignments in Alberta. A jealous husband who had been gunning for his wife's boy friend holed up in a portable granary and let loose with a shotgun blast when the Mountie broke in.

"Luckily, I stepped back after forcing the door. The blast tore up the floor and one pellet scraped my boot. I ran in and grabbed him before he could reload."

The other incident was a rifle shot from ambush a couple of days after a string of McClellan-led raids had wiped out a big moonshining ring. The rifleman missed by inches. "I went to the ground and crawled around behind the bushes where the shot had come from, but he was gone."

One of his biggest security assignments—and the only one he will say much about—came in 1946 after Igor Gouzenko fled the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa to disclose the operations of a big Russian spy network.

George McClellan, then an inspector, was brought in from Toronto to head the unit responsible for hiding Gouzenko from possible Soviet vengeance. "We took him away, hid him in a guarded house, and brought him to Ottawa each time he was needed."

The super-secret operation went like clockwork and the following year the inspector was appointed director of security and intelligence for the entire force.

Moving up in quick succession through the commissioned ranks, he spent three years in charge of Western Ontario operations and another three as chief of the entire Alberta force, which handles provincial police duties there.

GETS $28,000
He was brought to Ottawa as deputy commissioner in 1958 and a year later was appointed senior deputy.

In his new $20,000-a-year post he heads 8,500 men and women, 6,500 of them in uniform, and becomes the nation's senior policeman dealing with Canadian activities in Interpol, the international criminal police agency.

"This is an era of the jet-age criminal and we've got to have jet-age methods to cope with him." To do this, he believes the RCMP's ties with Interpol and such agencies as the FBI and Scotland Yard will have to become increasingly closer.

Commissioner McClellan sees many new problems ahead for police work. The RCMP is laying more and more stress on experts, sending talented men from the ranks to university for training in law and commerce.

All this responsibility is a far cry from the original field of work he chose after leaving school. He spent two years as the editor of a weekly newspaper at Shawinigan Falls, Que., before joining the Mounties as a constable in 1932.

"Sometimes when I look at the job ahead I wonder if I should have stuck to journalism," he said with a grin.

For one thing, it might have given him more time to pursue his favorite pastime, camping, hiking and fishing in the outdoors with his wife and three daughters—Barbara, 18, Margaret, 16, and Miriam, 13.

His second hobby is wood-working. Until a few years ago he regularly turned out fine furniture from his home workshop.

"Nowadays I'm lucky to get enough time for a birdhouse."

His favorite reading is the history of Western Canada and the United States but he also admits to an addiction for detective fiction of the British locked-room-murder variety and recently the James Bond spy-thriller series.

BACKGROUND

Marian Decision

Major Step Taken To Christian Unity?

By ROD CURRIE

The Vatican ecumenical council's preliminary decision Tuesday on dealing with the position of the Virgin Mary in the Roman Catholic Church could be a major step toward eventual Christian unity.

The council voted, by a narrow majority, to dispense with a scheduled separate draft decree on the church's attitude to the Madonna. Instead the subject now will be included in its discussion of the wide-ranging draft De Ecclesia—the nature of the church.

On the surface, the debate seemed to many to concern a purely technical matter of little significance. But in fact it touched a sensitive area of Roman Catholic teaching that has troubled Christendom for centuries.

And the vote of 1,114 to 1,074 represents yet another victory for the so-called progressive and moderate prelates.

The esteem in which the church holds the Mother of Christ has always been a major obstacle in the Vatican's approaches to other Christian churches that do not share these views.

Opponents to the separate decree insist that their attitude does not suggest any lessening of the dignity of the Blessed Virgin or any disregard of her pre-eminent position. Nor is there any question of the Catholic Church renouncing any of its dogmatic definitions about Mary.

But they argue that a separate document could give Christians outside the church the impression that new dogmas were being prepared and would tend to give a false picture of her place in the church.

As now resolved, the church's attitude toward Mary will be compressed into a single chapter at the end of De Ecclesia—now under debate. This method of handling it, it is hoped, will make it less difficult for non-Catholics to acknowledge and appreciate the foundations of Catholic devotion to Mary.

As the voting indicates, nearly half the church fathers feel this is going too far. Some claim it will in effect diminish the honor due Mary and give some Catholics an erroneous impression of the church's views on her role in the faith.

Several drafts have been circulated and it now appears likely that two of the more profound documents, by British and Chilean church scholars, will be compressed into the single chapter on the Virgin Mary.

Dom Christopher Butler, president of the English congregation of Benedictine monks, helped draw up the document on behalf of the bishops of England and Wales. This seeks to go back to the Bible to see what picture of the Virgin emerges before explaining how doctrine on the subject developed.

Stage Set For Coup In Saigon

SAIGON — The breach between Washington and President Diem and his family is complete. The stage is thus set for an anti-Diem coup. The life expectancy of the Diem family government would appear to depend in large part on the effectiveness of the formidable security apparatus of Ngo Dinh Nhu, Diem's brother.

U.S. military aid will continue—although it is already subject to revision and tighter U.S. control—and it is wrong to suggest U.S. elements are actively planning any coup. But Washington policy now firmly rejects the Diem family and is openly seeking to assure latent opposition groups of this rejection.

November-February is the season for coups in Southeast Asia. But before the coup—or possibly coups—anti-U.S. demonstrations may be expected in attempts to divert popular discontent.

Later, a young national "saviour" on the Laotian Kong Le model could usher in a "neutralist" era. This risk the Americans are reportedly prepared to take.

Negroes Discovered By Madison Avenue

NEW YORK — Madison Avenue has discovered the Negro, so there will be more and more Negro models in television and other advertisements.

It's not a normal development but rather a result of Negro boycotts or even threats of boycotts against firms which don't use Negroes in advertising campaigns.

The threat has had amazing results, good and bad, for Negroes. In New York City alone, boycott worries caused more than 40 advertisers to start using Negroes in their ads.

But one of these firms received more than 2,000 protest letters and vocal segregationists caused another company to cancel a commercial which was to have used Negroes.

Africans Apply Pressure

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — African nations requested Wednesday that South Africa's major trading partners come up with concrete measures they could support in the United Nations efforts to abolish peacefully South Africa's racial separation practices.

The request was held in abeyance as the UN's political committee suspended its lengthy debate on South Africa's apartheid policy pending action by the Security Council.

It was seen as another move to put pressure on eight nations, and especially the United Kingdom and the United States, to take positive action toward forcing South Africa to halt racial separation.

The political committee has heard more than 70 nations condemn the South African policy and many of them have asked for all-out sanctions against South Africa to make it heed UN resolutions demanding an end to apartheid.

But the U.K. and the U.S., along with Canada and others, have opposed economic and political boycott as a solution to the problem.

Europe Backs

U.S. Plan

PARIS (Reuters) — The western European Union's defence committee Wednesday backed an American plan to establish NATO multilateral nuclear force.

A communique announcing backing at a closed-door meeting of NATO strategy gave no details of the vote.

But committee sources said the three British delegates abstained from voting on the recommendation, which will be submitted for discussion by the WEU parliamentary assembly here in December.

The committee, composed of parliamentarians from Britain and the six European Common Market nations, proposed the force be set up and put under strict control of a NATO political nuclear executive.

The committee also adopted a recommendation welcoming the partial nuclear test-ban treaty.

The market members are France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

16 Carriers With Grain In Seaway

MONTREAL (CP) — A total of 16 grain carriers are in the St. Lawrence Seaway system east of Welland Canal, the signals service of the department of transport reported Wednesday.

Two other lake vessels also had passed through the canal during the last 24 hours and were likely carrying grain, although their cargoes were not definitely known, the service said.

At least 15 other carriers were approaching the Welland Canal from the Lakeshead carrying grain, as shippers strained to get as much wheat and flour as possible into ports where ocean vessels could pick it up to carry it to Russia.

Meanwhile ocean-going vessels continued to move grain from Montreal's elevators. Harbor officials said five overseas ships were loading grain Wednesday.

Bank Bandit Panicked By Screams

VANCOUVER (CP) — An armed bandit, who threatened to blow off a bank teller's head, panicked and fled empty-handed Wednesday when the teller screamed and collapsed.

Mrs. Marilyn Renaud, 28, fell to the floor of her cage when she was handed the note reading: "Kindly hand over to me two bundles of 20's or I'll blow your head off."

The bandit, described as tall and red-haired, took to his heels and fled from the branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

A customer, Percy Berkson, said the holdup man looked pale and shaken as he ran from the building.

Police arrested a suspect within minutes on a nearby street.

Bank officials said Mrs. Renaud was given the rest of the day off after police questioned her. They said she appeared to have been badly shaken by the experience.

Fish Threat 'Like Hook At Throat'

The threat of Japanese and Soviet fishermen is "a barbed hook poised at the throat" of the U.S. and Canadian fishing industry, Alaska Governor William Egan said in Victoria yesterday.

Speaking at the 50th annual convention of the Association of Pacific Fisheries, Governor William A. Egan asked:

FOOD DEMANDS

"From what source will the United States or Canada meet the increased food demands of their growing populations if we forego the bountiful resources of our coastal waters?"

The association, representing the canned-fish industry in Washington, Oregon and Alaska, ended a three-day convention at the Empress Hotel last night.

The governor said he was gratified by the firm stand U.S. and Canadian negotiators have taken for retaining of North Pacific Fisheries Convention provisions which keep Japanese fishermen out of North American fishing grounds.

He said he hopes this stand is maintained when negotiations resume in Ottawa in May.

Japanese negotiators have been pressing for abolition of the "abstention principle" provisions in the 10-year-old tripartite treaty.

RIGHTS WELL-FOUNDED

"That the fishermen of the United States and Canada have a full and well-founded right to the exclusive enjoyment of the benefits of those resources originating in our waters and perpetuated through expenditure of our dollars cannot be seriously challenged."

He said the present treaty is not achieving this, since Japanese now are catching North American-spawned fish on the high seas. He said the Japanese justify this on the grounds North American and Asian-spawned fish mingle in these areas.

He said increasing and imposing Soviet "armadas" in the Gulf of Alaska and off the Canadian coast, although operating mostly in international waters, also are causing serious concern.

S. G. Tarrant Again Heads Fish Group

S. G. Tarrant of Bellingham was elected to his third term as president of the Association of Pacific Fisheries yesterday at the association's annual convention in Victoria.

The association represents the fish-canning industry in Washington, Oregon and Alaska.

Other members of the executive also were re-elected. They are: first vice-president T. F. Sandoz of Astoria, Ore.; and second vice-president S. M. Rosenberg, third vice-president Nick Bez and executive secretary Herald A. O'Neill, all of Seattle.

Alaska Governor

Island Highway Route To Northland Urged

An alternative route to Alaska, including an island highway extended to Port Hardy at the northern end of Vancouver Island, would be a boost for travel for both Alaska and B.C., Alaska's governor said yesterday.

In Victoria to speak at a United States fishing industry convention, Governor William A. Egan said in an interview that such a route would give travellers the opportunity to make a circuit, travelling to Alaska by one route and back another.

This, he said, would encourage travel not only on the island but to Alaska.

Many Vancouver Island leaders have been pushing for such a link, which would see an extended Island Highway linked to a point such as Prince Rupert or Kitimat by ferry.

TREMENDOUS BOOST

Governor Egan said Alaska government ferries which began service this summer between Prince Rupert and several Alaska points proved a "tremendous boost" for tourism to Alaska.

The government ferries, he said, provided a circuit route, allowing people to go to Alaska by the Alaska Highway and return by the ferries, or the other way around.

The new ferries, he said, brought thousands of travellers to Alaska.

Canadians Outdo U.S.

United States salmon cannery don't sell salmon as well as their Canadian counterparts, a group of U.S. cannery men told in Victoria yesterday.

Dallas Zeiger of Seattle, told the Association of Pacific Fisheries the U.S. industry could have a 1,000,000-case carryover next season.

"Canada had a similar experience some years ago," he said, and with a public-relations campaign achieved a sale of 400,000 cases—much higher per capita than the U.S.

"If we could achieve similar results we'd have no trouble selling 3,000,000 to 4,000,000

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Between "The Lions will roar in '54" and "The top of the tree in '63" were nine long seasons of bitter, ironic and often amusing frustration. But while it took the Lions 10 seasons to do it, they actually progressed from a laughing-stock to a championship football club in two years.

Although it didn't seem that way at the time, the Lions took the first of three big steps toward respectability on August 23, 1961, when they completed the trade for Joe Kapp.

Less than three weeks later, on September 11, the Lions took the second stride when they installed Dave Skrien as head coach. They completed the metamorphosis at the end of the 1961 season when the club organization was overhauled and a boss man installed at the top to make professional football in Vancouver a business-like operation instead of a toy for an inordinate number of status-seekers.

Within a few months, after the start of the 1962 season and before the 1962 training camp the Lions acquired three things they had never been able to get in their first seven seasons—a quarterback, a solid imaginative coach and, most of all, authoritative direction. With the latter the Lions finally came of age.

Before the investigation of their club the Lions were a rudderless outfit, drifting aimlessly and making only flimsy attempts to get on course. There was no rapport between coach and manager, no spheres of command were set up and there was always an over-abundance of directors to whom big-time football was not much more than another way to alarm importance.

All the Lions had was money, and they spent it with a prodigality that was astounding. Because they just couldn't altogether miss in their easy-way attempt to buy a championship club they did manage to recruit the nucleus of a good team.

When Skrien took over, the Lions had Willie Fleming, Nub Beamer, Tom Brown, Lonnie Dennis, Tom Hinton, Don Vico, By Bailey, Norm Fieldgate, Barney Therrien, Pat Claridge, Jim Carpin, Mike Cacic, Steve Cotter, Neal Beaumont, Sonny Homer, a gimpy-kneed Kapp and Walt Billick, a husky Canadian Winnipeg Blue Bombers thought they wouldn't need. And, of course, Bob Schorner, one of the outcasts of their many costly failures.

It was a fine start towards a fine team but it would have meant little under the old system of operation. With C. B. "Slim" Delbridge at the top to make it understood Herb Capozzi was the business manager and that the assembling and operation of the club was the responsibility of the coach, it didn't take Skrien long to do the rest.

Skrien had been with the club for two seasons as assistant coach. He knew what was needed and what he wanted and for the first time, the Lions had a plan of action which went beyond the exigencies of the moment. He installed the so-called "pro" offence with its split end and flanker and went to work to get the kind of players most likely to make it work.

Watching the Lions being fitted together was interesting. Last year they brought in a parcel of speedy backs to get some help for Willie Fleming, intending to keep those with the surest hands. Out of these came Mack Burton and Tom Larcheild. Skrien showed up his defensive line by acquiring experienced Dick Routs from Toronto and signing Mike Martin, a hard-nosed fourth from Washington State University.

There were other significant additions last year—like line-backer Gary Schweitzer and tackle Bill Frank. And Ian Hageman, a young Canadian centre.

His first full season as coach brought the desired results on offense and he made big strides in his primary goal of installing a hitherto lacking club spirit. But the Lions missed by a game because it took most of the season for them to become a unit and because they were too susceptible to the pass.

So this season Skrien concentrated on that weakness. In came two fine rookies in Bill Munsey and Steve Shafer for the defensive backfield and he got a bonus when an exceptional American-trained Canadian rookie named Paul Biele proved he could handle the exacting position of corner-backer.

This freed Bailey for the defensive backfield, and the grand veteran should be an all-star in his first season there. Skrien was further blessed with luck when rookie Peter Kempf came through as a place-kicker and Toronto Argonauts amazingly decided Ron Morris was expendable.

In two seasons, despite more-than-ordinary injury problems, Skrien has taken a club from 1-14-1 to the conference championship. Perhaps, as one axe-grinder said, he doesn't deserve the credit for assembling the talent but the inescapable fact is that he is the first coach the Lions have had who made good talent into a good football team. His elevation was the most significant thing that has happened to the Lions next to the club reorganization. Neither Skrien, nor Knute Rockne or Vince Lombardi or Paul Brown could have made it under the old system.

Thirteen Games to Go

Durable Andy Seeks Record

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Heberton, the National Hockey League's iron-man-to-be, is in excellent shape to continue his assault on the league's consecutive games played record. He needs only to appear in Boston Bruins' next 13 games to break it.

The veteran right winger has had his share of bumps and bruises during his eight years in the big league. Yet, he's played in 568 straight games.

Beavers Lose KC Hook-Up

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Of feuds of Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League said Wednesday that Kansas City Athletics have cancelled their working agreement with the Portland baseball club.

Portland is expected to announce a new agreement with a major-league club after the minor league meeting in San Diego early next month.

Whoopers Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four whooping cranes have been sighted at Aransas national wildlife refuge on the Texas gulf coast, the first of the rare species to arrive at their wintering grounds.

His 568th game will be Sunday night, when the Bruins are at home to the Red Wings.

"I really have been lucky. The toughest time I've had was about three years ago when I lost seven teeth in the same week while playing for New York Rangers," Heberton said Wednesday. "I lost four upper teeth when I was hit in the mouth by a stick in Montreal. A few days later in New York I got three of my lower teeth knocked out when the same thing happened."

Heberton turned pro with Montreal Canadiens 13 years ago although he never got into a game with them.

"I tore some ligaments in my right knee that first year and I guess the Canadians felt that I would have chronic knee trouble," said Heberton. "They sent me down to the minors and I missed 30 games. The knee gave me a lot of trouble then but it hasn't bothered me since."

"The second year, with Victoria in the Western League, I had my appendix taken out, so I don't have to worry about that anymore, either."

Heberton says he sleeps with the windows wide open, eats lots of steaks and takes an occasional beer.

"I usually only get one cold a year," he added. "I had one in training camp about a month ago, so I guess I'm all right on that score, too."

He makes his off-season home in Victoria.

Koufax Most Valuable Of National Leaguers

FAN FARE

By WALT DITZEN

BOSTON (AP)—Los Angeles left hander Sandy Koufax—the comeback Dodger who made the difference—was named the National League's Most Valuable Player for 1963 Wednesday.

The 27-year-old strikeout king decisively beat Dick Groat, St. Louis Cardinals' sparkplug, 237 points to 190. Results of the annual poll of a 20-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America were announced by secretary Hy Harkins. Koufax was named on all but one ballot.

Koufax, recovered from a serious circulatory ailment in a finger on his left hand which sidelined him in July, 1962, pitched the Dodgers to the pennant they couldn't quite pull off without him in the latter half of '62.

He registered a league record of 306 strikeouts en route to a 2-5 mark and a brilliant 1.88 earned run average. He pitched his second major league no-hitter early in the season against San Francisco and personally accounted for two victories in the four-game world series sweep of New York Yankees.

Koufax captured 14 first place votes. Shortstop Groat was named first by four voters while Milwaukee outfielder Hank Aaron and Los Angeles infielder Jim Gilliam split the other two.

Groat was 1960 MVP for the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates and Aaron, third with 135 points to 130 for Dodger relief ace Ron Perranoski, was honored in 1957. Groat and Aaron were the only players listed on all 20 ballots. Willie Mays of San Francisco was fifth.

Koufax is the first pitcher to be voted the National League's top prize since Brooklyn Dodger Don Newcombe in 1955.

Nelson Hockey Club Suspended for Year

NELSON (CP)—Nelson Maple Leafs were suspended Tuesday night for failing to appear for a scheduled Western International Hockey League game.

WHIL secretary Glenn Mason of Trail confirmed at midnight that the WHIL had decided to enforce Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Regulation No. 76, which, he said, covered the situation.

The suspension will be in force for at least a year. All players and members of the Leaf executive are suspended for at least a year. Mr. Mason said. The club also forfeited a $500 bond which it had posted with the league.

Nelson was scheduled to meet Rossland Warriors but only the Warriors, referees and about 50 fans showed up at the Rossland arena. Leafs had asked for postponement of the game for lack of players, but the league refused.

"Rossland didn't want the postponement and the WHIL considered that the Nelson club was not making an effort to obtain players," said Mason.

Bamberger Would Like Mountie Job

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Bamberger has made a bid to manage a Pacific Coast Baseball League team that at the moment doesn't exist.

Bamberger, 38, pitcher-coach of Dallas-Fort Worth last season, telephoned Ray Sheward and said he would like to manage Vancouver Mounties if they should be admitted into the PCL next season.

Sheward is a director of the Mountie club that was dropped from the PCL last year when it ironed out its financial difficulties.

Bamberger played for mounties from 1956 to 1962. He said he had several baseball offers but would like to return here if possible. Minnesota Twins severed their agreement this month with Dallas-Fort Worth.

"Hence the Nelson request was refused and the Nelson president was advised of the consequences of not keeping this date. . . . The league plans to continue operation on a four-team basis."

Trail, Kimberley, Rossland and Spokane are left.

Leafs' request for postponement followed a game Sunday in Spokane in which four players were injured. At a Monday night practice, only seven players dressed and veterans on the club refused to play any longer without defencemen Harry Smith, whom Trail Smoke Eaters have declined to release to Leafs.

Gump Worsley Ill But Phil Fills Bill

When Montreal Canadiens went all out to pry goalie Gump Worsley from New York, one of the men they considered expendable was Phil Goyette.

Last night Canadiens lost Worsley for at least three weeks, and Goyette chose this particular evening to run wild for the Rangers.

In a game marked by three separate brawls and 26 penalties the biggest casualty of all was—Worsley, who wasn't bothering anybody. He pulled a hamstring muscle in his left leg trying to recover on a shot by Tim Horton and Toronto Maple Leafs, ahead 2-0 at the time, went on to trounce Canadiens, 6-3, before 13,729 fans in Toronto.

IN ON FOUR

While all this was going on, Goyette was scoring three goals and assisting on the winner by Vic Hadfield as Rangers beat Boston Bruins, 4-3, in New York.

In eight games as a Ranger, Goyette has scored five goals, and in joining Hadfield and Andy Bathgate he has given Rangers one of the league's better lines. Bathgate assisted on all four goals last night.

HODGE PLAYS

Now Canadiens must use Charlie Hodge in goal while Worsley recovers, and hope Goyette and Jacques Plante don't stay as hot as they've been to date for New York.

Ed Litzenberger scored his first two goals of the season to give Leafs a 2-0 lead in the first period, and when rookie Jean Guy Moriniste replaced Worsley in the second he was beaten on the first shot Leafs took—a tap-in by Dave Keon on a power play.

GAVE UP THREE

Before the night was over he was to give up goals to Gerry Ehman (on a deflection that gave him no chance), Edie Shuck and Bob Pulford. J. C. Tremblay, Gilles Tremblay and Henri Richard scored for Canadiens.

But the big show of the night was a second-period brawl between Pulford and Montreal's Terry Harper, who were called for high sticking.

Claremont Still Fans Colonist Cup Hopes

The most popular student at Claremont Senior Secondary School this morning is probably Jay Christiansen.

And at Oak Bay High School the mere mention of Christiansen is enough to make soccer players cringe.

Christiansen kept Claremont's slim Colonist Cup hopes alive yesterday at Oak Bay by scoring the lone goal of the match as Claremont took a 1-0 Inter-High School Soccer League decision from Oak Bay.

Claremont has only three wins in nine games. Two of them are over Oak Bay. Both were by the 1-0 route. And Christiansen was the scorer on both occasions.

But for Claremont, Christiansen's goal was more than just novel. The game was a "must" for the Claremont kids if they are to finish in second place and thus qualify for the Colonist Cup city championship with Victoria High on Nov. 8 at Royal Athletic Park.

As it stands now, Oak Bay has 11 points and Claremont 10, with both clubs having one game left.

Christiansen's goal came with about ten minutes to go in the match and resulted from a mix-up in front of the Oak Bay goal. The ball rolled across the goalmouth and Christiansen booted it into an empty net with the Bays' goalie and backs caught looking at each other.

In yesterday's other contest Vic High Tyres added to their first-place margin by defeating Mount View, 4-1. Tyres got goals from Doug Bainbridge, Dave Evans and Ron Stubbs and a Mount View back put through his own goal. Bruce Kowalski scored a penalty for Views.

A floodlit game at 7:30 p.m. between Esquimalt and Mount Doug preceded the Vic High-Claremont contest Friday evening.

Russ Jackson
... best around

But They're Hard to Compare

Jackson Modern-Day Krol

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Teddy Morris agrees with experts who say that Ottawa Rough Riders wouldn't have gone very far in the Eastern Football Conference this year without Russ Jackson as quarterback. Teddy doesn't stop there.

"I'd say it's pretty definite that Russ is the best Canadian-born quarterback that pro football in this country has ever produced," he said this week.

Teddy knows there may be a few folks around who will disagree violently with him and put in a plug for Joe Krol.

"But there's a point that people may not realize right now and that is that Joe was not a quarterback. He was a half-back, although he was a passer. I think that people who have read about Joe's exploits may have tabbed him as a quarter. He wasn't."

Teddy, a great halfback with Toronto Argonauts in the 1930s, has seen a lot of players over the last 30 years. And he coached Argonauts to three straight Grey Cup victories over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in 1945-46-47.

KROL WAS GREAT

It was Krol, who could do just about anything on a football field, who almost single-handedly ruined the Bombers in those years. He was a deadly passer, a good runner and better-than-average punter. Argos won 35-0 in 1945 and Krol tossed two touchdown passes. In 1946, when the Toronto club won 28-6, he threw three touchdown passes, caught one from his sidekick, Royal Copeland, and kicked three converts. In 1947, he kicked three singles in the final five minutes to give Argonauts a heart-stopping 10-8 decision.

In 1952, at the age of 34, he played in his last Cup and, although he didn't score a point as Argonauts beat Edmonton Eskimos 21-11, he went out as the all-time top scorer in Cup play with 30 points. The mark still stands.

Morris, Argonauts' bird dog who has been seeking Canadian talent for the club for years, refuses to say which was the greater player—Krol or Jackson.

"Krol had more gifts. He was a good punter, he could run faster than Jackson and I think he could pass as well as Jackson. But Jackson sits in there to call the play. He has confidence and finesse and he's a real great one. His value to the Rough Riders is tremendous."

Which of these players was more valuable to his team? "No one can say that."

"If Jackson gets hurt now with the Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats at the top of the Eastern standing, you would have to say that the Rough Riders would be definite underdogs in the playoffs without Jackson."

"We lost Krol for most of the 1949 season due to injuries and Argonauts didn't even make it to the Big Four playoffs that year."

The value of Krol and Jackson to their respective clubs was great. But let somebody else compare them and say which is greatest.

Jackson could be a leading candidate as the outstanding Canadian player in the country this year. He might even be up there in the voting for the outstanding Canadian Football League player—Canadian or American.

City Debut Tonight For Kingston Trio

By BERT BENNY

The Kingston Trio, of night club, TV and recording fame, appears in Victoria for the first time tonight, at Memorial Arena.

FOLK-BASED MUSIC

But the trio, famed for its own personal brand of folk-based music, is neither collegiate or Jamaican.

It began in the spring of 1957 when Nick Reynolds, Bob Shane and Dave Guard were playing The Cracker Pot, a colorful college hangout near Stanford University.

SIGNED TO CONTRACT

Here they were heard by publisher Frank Werber who signed them to a management contract.

Every day for several months they prepared, arranged, scored and rehearsed assiduously in a storage loft in the San Francisco North Beach area.

RUN EXTENDED

Then, some months later they made their debut at San Francisco's Purple Onion. Booked for a week, the engagement extended to seven months.

From the winter of 1957 to the summer of 1958 they travelled, visiting such of the best U.S. clubs as New York's Blue Angel and Village Vanguard and Mr. Kelly's in Chicago.

TV IN 1958

Also in 1958 they made their TV debut on Playhouse 90. In 1961 they toured Australia, New Zealand, Japan and the South Seas and it was after this that the original trio broke up, John Stewart taking the place of Dave Guard.

TOM DOOLEY HIT

It was his recording of Tom Dooley that rocketed them to international fame, but subsequent hits included Tijuana Jail, M.T.A., Worried Man, Everglades and Where Have All the Flowers Gone? This string of successes proved that Tom Dooley wasn't altogether passing fancy.

All three members of the trio are married and their families usually travel with them except for one-night stands. Outside of show business they run their music publishing firm, a land development company and real estate holdings.

Derek Smith Wins $250 Hotel Award

Derek G. Smith, Victoria, was one of six UBC students to be presented with $250 scholarships by the B.C. Hotels Association yesterday at the group's annual convention in Vancouver.

The student is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George (Jock) Smith of 4064 Quadra.

The scholarships were awarded on merit and recipients were chosen by the UBC faculty in co-operation with the association.

Other winners were Lawrence Kenigan, Winlaw; John Bosomworth, Armstrong; Rees Morgan, Oliver; Miss Mary Dudley, Vancouver, and Miss Esther K. Clemm, Mission City.

Late Judge Was Avid Gardener

The diary of former chief justice Archer Martin, reflecting his interest in gardening over a period of 46 years up to his death in 1940, is being studied by city parks administrator W. H. Warren.

M. Warren said yesterday the thick book, crammed with hundreds of newspaper clippings and personal observations, anecdotes and weather records will probably be turned over to the provincial archives.

BOUGHT DIARY

The diary was bought by K. Christiansen, another gardener, when the chief justice's effects were sold after his death. Mr. Christiansen died recently and his widow left for New Zealand after giving the book to Robert Warren, brother of the parks administrator.

Police Test Transfer

Two constables have been transferred from the uniform division to the detective division of the Victoria force, effective Nov. 1.

Const. E. A. James and L. J. McTeague will retain their present rank during their new posting, which is to be for an indefinite period, and will wear plain clothes.

The move is designed to broaden general police experience and if it works well others will be given similar opportunities.

B.C. Hydro has mailed transit franchise payments totaling $8,378 for the third quarter of the year to Greater Victoria municipalities. Victoria receives $3,114, Nanaimo $1,314, Oak Bay $1,826 and Esquimalt $818.

An increase of more than 700 names on the Saanich voters list reflects the pattern of steady growth in the municipality, officials say.

The total now stands at 25,933, compared with 23,234 in 1962. A few more names probably will be added during the 10 a.m. Friday court of revision.

University of Victoria has a nickname. The president of the Alma Mater Society, Larry Devlin, said many were suggested and all discarded except Uvic.

DRAINS HUGE AREA

The area drained by South America's Amazon River, more than 2,053,000 square miles, is nearly twice that of any other river.

NANAIMO—Inquest in this city's newest multiple killing—the shooting of Glenda Salo, 5; Roy Salo, 13, and their father Erling, 45, Tuesday night—opened yesterday at 4 p.m. and was adjourned to Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Coroner Russell Inkster presided at the brief hearing.

The double murder and suicide might have been a greater tragedy if two older daughters had not left home to go to a show brief minutes before the shooting.

RECONSTRUCTION

Police reconstructed events this way:

At 7 p.m. Wiebecke Salo, 18, and her sister Kirsty, 16, were picked up by a friend, Bill Clift, and went out.

Minutes later Erling Walde-mar Salo, wartime Norwegian fighter pilot, came to the home of his estranged wife, Mrs. Irene Asta Salo, and family at 605 Lambert Street in Harwood.

He apparently had been drinking, and broke open the front door of the duplex. He had a .303 rifle with him.

A family argument developed, culminating in the shooting of the two children.

SETTLED DOWN
Mrs. Salo evidently tried to take the gun away from her husband, failed, and ran screaming from the house.

Mr. Salo is then thought to have turned the gun on himself.

John Costa Rita, who lives at 606 Lambert, directly across the street, told the Colonist he and his wife Vicky had just settled down to watch Gun-smoke on television when there was a pounding on the door and it was flung open.

PHONED RCMP

Mrs. Salo rushed into the house shouting, "Quick! Come quick! He's gone crazy. He's shot the kids."

Mr. Rita, Nanaimo Regional Hospital orderly, at once phoned the RCMP. He then rushed across the street, kicked aside the debris from the broken front door and ran into the house.

POOL OF BLOOD
"I saw Glenda lying in a pool of blood," he said, "and Salo lying nearby with an old Lee-Enfield rifle in his hand. He was still alive, but had apparently shot himself in the stomach. I kicked the rifle out of his hand. The RCMP arrived very quickly but Salo died shortly after they got there."

"I didn't see the boy. I learned later that the police had found him dead in the basement."

NEWCOMERS

"The Salos were newcomers to the district," he continued, "so we didn't know them very well but Mrs. Salo had told us that she was separated from her husband and had been having trouble with him. I didn't hear any shots and if I had I would have thought they were firecrackers at this time of the year."

The elder daughters were taken to the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Wetten, 910 Moose Street, where they stayed the night.

Mrs. Salo had been working as a waitress at the Shoreline Hotel.

Tuesday night's killings were the fourth multiple killing in Nanaimo in five years.

On July 1, 1959, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kosteniuk, 62 and 55, were found stabbed to death in their South Wellington home. The case is still unsolved.

On March 2, 1961, Ruby Dodds was killed by her husband who then killed himself.

On October 17, 1962, two teen-age Nanaimo residents, Diane Phipps and Leslie Dixon, were found shot to death. This case is also unsolved.

Leave Hair Alone!

LONDON (CP)—If you're going bald, leave your hair alone. Massages, creams and other "cures" may just delay normal regrowth, says a Harley Street skin specialist.

Writing in Family Doctor, a monthly published by the British Medical Association, the specialist, Dr. Peter Bortle warns against trichologists—students of hair growth—and other hair specialists who claim to cure or prevent baldness. Avoid them "as you would a plague of witch doctors," he says.

"There is at the present time no way whatsoever of making hair grow. Anyone who says there is, be he doctor, trichologist or any so-called hair specialist, is ignorant."

Extra Holiday School Idea

VANCOUVER (CP)—Education Minister Peterson has asked the B.C. Teachers' Federation to ask the B.C. Education Board to ask the B.C. School Act to allow extra day holiday during the Christmas season.

Both the B.C. Parent-Teacher School Act.

Teachers Have No Case Says Board Spokesman

School teachers of Greater Victoria District 61, in their demands for salary increases ranging from five to eight per cent, haven't got a case, according to David Logan, board finance chairman and salary negotiation spokesman.

Mr. Logan's comment was made last night during three hours of fruitless negotiations in which trustees and teacher spokesmen argued about points of order, discussed the teachers' reasons for the demands but did not once mention the actual salary amounts.

OPTIMISTIC

The teachers, represented by Norman Preston, claimed their percentages were reasonable, according to the Holmes report, but trustees felt that the report was optimistic about economic growth and other experts disagreed with it.

They claimed their salaries were not favorably comparable with those of other professions but the figures they presented, the board felt, were not complete enough and included self-employed professionals.

HELP RECRUITMENT

That salary increases would help teacher recruitment was not a valid argument, Mr. Logan felt, because salary increases would not solve the teachers' problem and might even attract undesirable to the profession.

The fourth point, that the cost of living has gone up one per cent wasn't argued by trustees.

What was argued was the presence and voice of Wilfred Peck the board's consultant.

At one point Mr. Peck, with the trustees' spokesman's permission, started to make a point and the teachers said they would not negotiate with anyone but the spokesman and they rose to leave.

But Mr. Logan pointed out that by law the board was allowed a consultant and he could be given permission to speak and that the teachers could also employ a consultant.

NEXT DISCUSSION

Salaries still hadn't been mentioned by figure at 10:20 p.m., 40 minutes beyond the scheduled adjournment time.

and the meeting ended with next Thursday at 8 p.m. set for the next discussions.

Conciliators will be appointed before Tuesday according to law, but they will not necessarily be used.

Teachers' demands involve an increase in the district school bill of $418,470.

Reply Today In Dog Bite Appeal Case

Counsel for a woman bitten by a dog in 1959 will reply today to an appeal launched by the dog's owners, who claim the woman was at fault.

The dog, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Frankfield, bit Mrs. Mary McNeill, injuring her face.

ON HERSELF

Alan Macfarlane, the Frankfield's lawyer, claims Mrs. McNeill brought the injury on herself by "meddling" with the dog while visiting the Frankfield kennels, 2330 Sooke Road, Aug. 15, 1959.

He is appealing the judgment of Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton, who ruled the animal was "wicked" and that Mrs. McNeill had suffered permanent facial disfigurement as a result of the bite.

IGNORED WARNINGS

Mr. Macfarlane also claims Mrs. McNeill had ignored warnings given her by the dog owners, and that Mr. Justice Wootton erred in assessing the blame for the incident at 75 per cent for the Frankfields.

Rodney Taylor, Mrs. McNeill's lawyer, will reply today.

Pointless to Meet Hawrelak Say Angry Varsity Students

EDMONTON, Alta. (UPI)—University students yesterday turned down an offer to meet with Mayor William Hawrelak to discuss their objections to his re-election Oct. 16.

A spokesman for the students said, "we're not afraid to meet him, but it seems pointless. He had no moral right to go back to public office—least of all as mayor."

ROUGH, TUMBLE

The students received a rough and tumble reception from 500 Hawrelak supporters when they attempted to picket city hall Monday with signs saying, "Hawrelak is a moral incompetent" and "Hawrelak must go."

Their signs were ripped up, some had their clothes ripped, others were pelted with eggs and kicked and all were shouted at, insulted and pushed. Twenty policemen were called to handle the unruly mob, and they finally escorted the students away from city hall.

MISCONDUCT

Behind the students' protest is a judicial inquiry which labelled Hawrelak as a betrayer of the public trust and accused him of misconduct in connection with land deals.

Hawrelak resigned the mayoralty after an eight-year tenure when the inquiry led by Justice Marshall Porter released its findings, but was re-elected.

The students said the Oct. 16 civic election was not "democratic," and the votes were "treated with contempt."

"The election was completely negative," their spokesman said. "Many of those who voted for Hawrelak were really voting against the only other candidate."

Wreckage Hunted

Kaare Survived Nazis But Not Pacific Storm

VANCOUVER (CP)—Kaare son John, has been unreported since Oct. 16.

The valiant little ship that survived a strafing by German aircraft and a trip across the North Atlantic is believed to have sunk off the northern British Columbia coast.

RCAF search and rescue said it believes the 60-foot halibut boat has gone down somewhere in the Prince Rupert-Queen Charlotte Islands area.

"We're looking for wreckage now," said Fk. Lt. Lane Landess. "She was quite a large ship and if she had been sheltering somewhere she'd have been found by now."

The vessel, with six men on board including skipper owner Anleik Antonson Jr., and his son John, has been unreported since Oct. 16. In the summer of 1940 the Kaare II slipped out of Nazi-occupied Narvik, Norway, with 23 persons on board. German aircraft strafed it as it moved down the coast.

After a stop north of Scotland for fuel the ship sailed for Newfoundland. The following year it was brought through the Panama Canal to Vancouver. It was sold to its present owner in 1960.

Fire, Quakes Hit Italy

Longarone (UPI)—This flood-devastated area of northern Italy was plagued yesterday by more disasters—a raging forest fire and two earth tremors. The tremors, centred at Cinisello, where Varoni dam survivors sought refuge, did not cause any damage. Troops kept fires on nearby slopes from spreading to homes.

John D Asks Voters Propose Reforms

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, declaring he has not changed his philosophy, appealed to voters generally Wednesday night to send him their ideas and suggestions for national reforms.

He said in a national television address that the Liberal government elected this spring took five years to put its party platform together and after six months in office its program is "almost in ruins."

During the last six months, he said, it has been revealed that the previous Liberal government, of permitting U.S. cabinet intervention in Canadian affairs, and of making false and scurrilous attacks on himself.

Mr. Diefenbaker accused the Liberals of weak and vacillating government, of permitting U.S. cabinet intervention in Canadian affairs, and of making false and scurrilous attacks on himself.

meat was to blame for some of the faults attributed to his Conservative administration. Now, in opposition, the Conservative party was determined to stick to its basic principles but recognized changing conditions require new policies.

Victim Hits Back

SEATTLE (AP)—Charles A. Nave, who became the little man's St. George-who-fought-the-dragon when he appealed a $15 traffic ticket to the state supreme court and won, sued the city of Seattle Wednesday for $3,335,200.

Nave, 59, asked from $100 to $250,000 on each of 53 separate counts.

He charged city officials with dereliction of duty, breach of public trust, false statements in high court, slander, dilatory actions and improper moves.

KNOWN WRONG

The $250,000 sought was for "prolonging of a known wrong."

Nave was arrested in 1961 and charged with failing to make a turn in a right-turn-only lane and with resisting arrest. Acting as his own attorney he fought his municipal court conviction to the state supreme court, which set it aside and ordered the city to reimburse him $404 in legal costs.

Nave is a self-taught, self-employed research engineer.

Drunken Driving Admitted

A 57-year-old car salesman was sentenced to seven days in jail yesterday after saying his balance was impaired by a recent car operation.

Magistrate William Ostler said in Victoria magistrate's court that he was imposing the minimum sentence because there might be mitigating circumstances in the case of John S. Clements, 630 Rockland. Clements pleaded guilty to drunken driving.

Court was told he told arresting officers who stopped his car on Craigdarroch that he had had three bottles of stout, a couple of gins and he could not remember what else.

Douglas Carlson, 3073 Albina, was fined $250 and had his licence suspended after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Victoria magistrate's court was told that he slammed on his brakes and skidded to a stop on Yates at Douglas, and after starting again nearly collided with a traffic island.

Joseph Kirkpatrick, 88 Crease, was fined $10 in Seanch magistrate's court yesterday for being drunk in a public place. He was remanded to jail on two assault charges.

tent to commit an indictable offence and with possession of burglary tools, in connection with a July 28 attempted safe-cracking at Doman's Lumber, 280 Bay.

Under cross-examination by defence counsel David Hummel, Victoria Const. Laurie Belfry agreed with Mr. Hummel's suggestion that "no direct evidence has turned up in conflict with any of the explanations" the two gave police.

The explanations referred to the pair's reasons why police found them driving in the same area as the lumber company, and why police found a jackknife, a small battery and a screwdriver in a downtown hotel room with the men.

TOOLS SCATTERED

He said attempts had been made to blow open the safe with nitroglycerine, batter it open with the back of an axe, knock out the tumblers behind the combination dial, and carry it away.

Court was told tools were scattered around the rear room of the building. The trial continues today.

Island Boys To Train As Officers

Two Vancouver Island high school graduates have been enrolled as officer cadets in the Canadian army for training under the regular officer training plan (ROTP) at College Militaire Royal, St. Jean, Que.

They are Michael Anthony Verdel, 3148 Marx, Victoria, and Gordon Peter Harris of Duncan. Selected because of their high scholastic standing and suitability as potential officers of the regular army, they will receive pay and allowances for the rank during the academic year.

Academic studies are supplemented by military training during the summer, both at camps in Canada and overseas. Tuition and book fees are paid by the army.

On graduation they receive commissions in the regular army.

In all 134 high school graduates from across Canada have been enrolled as officer cadets under this plan at the three services colleges.

Study Law, Accused Told

"You should study law," a youthful defendant, acting as his own defense counsel, was told by County Court Judge M. L. Tyrwhitt-Drake yesterday.

Ronald Lawrence Lim, 18, is being tried on a charge of dangerous driving.

It was alleged at a preliminary hearing that Lim and another man were racing each other when an accident occurred at Tolmie and Maple just after midnight June 14.

POLICE CALLED

Judge Tyrwhitt-Drake's commendation for Lim's style at cross-examination came after two Spanish police officers had been called as witnesses by crown counsel J. E. Gatehouse.

Court heard a description of "drag" racing by one of the policemen, Cpl. R. A. Peterson, who investigated the accident. Cpl. Peterson is an honorary member of the Quarter-Milers hot-rod club and said he thinks he is the only Victoria-area policeman with such a membership.

CAR PACED

Court was told that during his investigation of the case, Cpl. Peterson had paced his car over the section of the road involved in the accident, to see how fast a "drag-racing" car might be expected to go.

In cross-examination, Lim said, "I assume you did this using safety measures, and without danger to anybody else. . . . Then it can be done safely."

Cpl. Peterson said, "Depending on the time and the position of the vehicle." He said he made his test at 4:30 a.m. Cpl. Peterson said an aim of hot-rod clubs is to keep drag racing—acceleration contests from a standing start—off public streets. But, he said, in his patrols, he has noticed quarter-mile-long stretches marked on public roads, and he suspects these were marked by other motorists for "dragging."

The trial continues today.

Tin Can Controversy Wearies Wife

JILL ST. JOHN

POMONA, Calif.—The wife of Los Angeles By-Products Co. president C.C. Sexton is tired of "tin cans and city hall" and is suing for divorce after 27 years of marriage. Sexton has been involved in a continuing controversy over a Los Angeles ordinance requiring householders to separate rubbish from waste metals for delivery to his company. Council this week gave a preliminary vote favoring dropping the requirement and going back to a combined rubbish pickup.

LOS ANGELES—Jill St. John divorced dime-store heir Lance Reventlow, saying she did it on her physician's advice after she claimed her husband bullied her into participating in dangerous sports.

TORONTO—An unknown benefactor has rescued stripper Sandra Churchey, 22, by paying her $500 fine and saving her from the alternative, a three-month sentence in Toronto's Don Jail. Miss Churchey, whose measurements are 50-25-37, was billed at a Toronto theatre as Busty Russell, the Wow Girl. She pleaded guilty to giving an indecent performance.

HOLLYWOOD—Danny Thomas, 49-year-old comedian, is quitting television while he's still on top. He said this will be the last season of his Monday night show. He made the announcement in the same week that an audience survey listed him among the top 10 shows in the U.S., a position he has held for several years.

BAGHDAD—Iraq's military governor-general, Brig. Rashid Munshi, has ordered the release of 228 political prisoners.

QUEBEC—Joseph Damase Begin, 63, former Quebec colonization minister, was ordered to trial on a charge of defrauding the province of $82,745 allegedly kicked back in phony commissions to businessman Arthur Bouchard of Quebec City.

GENEVA—Ukrainian nationalist Olexander Kowalenko, 88, one of the leaders of the 1905 battleship Potemkin mutiny against the Russian czar, died here Oct. 17.

HAMILTON—An action for divorce has been initiated against Dr. William D. Howe, federal New Democratic Party member for Hamilton South, by Look Margaret Howe. The Howes were married in Chicago, on Nov. 9, 1957.

BATH, England—Herbert Carpenter, 77, Bath's oldest cab driver, was ordered to take a new driving test after he admitted driving carelessly before his taxi struck a wall—his first accident in 45 years of driving.

NOTTINGHAM, England—When the Nottingham Playhouse closed, the company ripped up one of its side seats and gave it to theatre critic Emrys Bryman, who occupied it at opening nights for 10 years.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.—Gastro-enteritis, a children's disease which has claimed the lives of 79 Newfoundland babies this year, "seems to be on the wane all over the province," Dr. David Sowers says.

LOS ANGELES—A burglar picked the superior court chambers of Judge Lloyd Nix to steal $40 from the judge's wallet while court was in session.

LONDON—Graham Bartlett, 23, a bachelor, and Stanley Buckley, 53, a retired shopkeeper with a wife and three children, shared the $232,000 winnings in a British soccer pool. Both men correctly picked all eight winners in last Saturday's matches.

BONN—The government admitted someone made a mistake in sending a cable of condolences to Jean Cocteau's widow.

VATICAN CITY—Dutch-born Archbishop Francisco Beckman of Panama, 80, died here of a heart attack.

VANCOUVER—A car owner riding as a passenger was convicted on impaired driving and fined $300 in police court. Kenneth Hamre, 38, was found guilty in allowing another impaired driver, J. R. Meyer, to operate his car. Meyer, 38, was sentenced to one year in jail.

Tip Top Tab

MADRID (UPI)—The Madrid newspaper Puchin, complaining that foreign tourists tip too much, said yesterday that a Greek millionaire recently picked up the 2,000-peseta ($53) tab in a Madrid cafe—and left a tip of 11,000 pesetas ($183).

Bush Pilots' Memorial Likely for Edmonton

QUEBEC (CP)—A member of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada says a memorial to the country's bush pilots likely will be located at Edmonton's International Airport.

Richard Secord of Edmonton, a descendant of Laura Secord, said the memorial to the bush pilots was discussed at the board's annual meeting here.

Recommendations are not divulged before study by the northern affairs department.

They'd Mortgage Their Home For Daughter's Olympic Bid

TORONTO (CP) — Years of sacrifices will ride with Christy Hanson when she bids for a place on Canada's Olympic equestrian team next summer.

The cost for the dark-haired 17-year-old and her family can be figured in the thousands.

"I've always been crazy about horses," says Christy, who began pleading with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hanson, for a horse when she was only three.

Later, when she was in school, her father told her she could have one if she achieved first-class honors in her examinations.

She did and in 1957 bought her first horse, a hackney paid for out of her own television earnings. Christy—short for Christal—played the role of Princess Crocus in a children's TV series.

Since 1960 she has won 60 ribbons in dressage competitions and last year was reserve champion in the Prix St. George dressage test at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

But these are small triumphs compared with the goal she has set for herself—earning a gold medal for Canada in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo next October.

have already spent $11,000 training Christy's horse Bonheur, a spirited and temperamental dark brown thoroughbred bought four years ago for $800. She also has two other horses.

TO GERMANY

They figure the annual cost of training both Christy and her horse now runs about $5,000. This includes the cost of sending Christy to Hanover, Germany, for nine months in 1963 to study under Gen. Oppelin Bronikowski, Olympic dressage gold medalist in 1936.

Christy takes her academic studies under a private tutor and this, too, is costly.

"But then it's easy to part with money if it means your daughter will not have to grow up frustrated because she couldn't achieve her goal for lack of money," her mother says.

The Hansons estimate they means mortgaging their spacious home in nearby Oak Ridges or their dance studio in downtown Toronto, they are prepared to do it. Mrs. Hanson teaches interpretative dancing and her husband is her business and studio manager. Christy, herself an excellent dancer, also teaches at the studio sometimes.

"There have been many bank loans," says Mrs. Hanson. "Three or four years after the Olympics we still will be paying on them."

Ann

Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Some friends recently named their baby Shirley. In my opinion it's a dirty trick to give such a name to a girl, but to name a boy Shirley is unforgivable.

Why do people do such things to their children? It seems to be happening more and more. Two other friends called their son Marion. My husband and I began to call him Butch the day he was born. Fortunately it caught on and saved him.

Girls get stuck with names which belong to the opposite sex as well. In school these days these names, which can go both ways, create pure confusion. A teacher who looks for Keith and sees something in long curls is bound to have difficulty in concealing her surprise.

What advice can you give to these unfortunate kids who get hooked with oddball names? (and while you're at it, take a good swipe at the parents.)—PLAIN MARY AND GLAD OF IT.

Dear Glad Mary: The only advice I have for a boy named Shirley is to learn how to fight. Personally, I don't think names matter much. If a name doesn't fit a personality you can be sure that childhood friends will hook on a nickname that does.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I found an apartment which captured my heart. It was too expensive for me so I asked a friend who is a hospital nurse if she would like to be my roommate. She loved the apartment, too, and agreed with pleasure.

Now, whenever I come home from work her boy friend is sitting in the living room reading the newspaper or putting around in the kitchen making himself something to eat. He has a key to our place and waltzes in whenever he feels like it.

Our bedrooms are at opposite ends of the apartment and her boy friend often stays in her bedroom until 3 a.m.—which I think is disgraceful. She has a TV set in there and claims they enjoy watching the late shows and that I am evil-minded.

I realize I should tell her to shape up or ship out, but if she leaves I am stuck with a rental I can't afford. My name is on the lease which doesn't expire until May 1. Please advise me.—HUNG.

Dear Hung: This situation will get worse before it gets better. Tell your friend she must move within 90 days and start to look for a new roommate now. If you can't find one, you are stuck until May, at which time you should find something you can afford—alone.

ST. MARY'S

St. Mary's Evening WA will hold the regular meeting Nov. 5 at 8 p.m. in the church hall, 1608 Yale Street, Oak Bay. Final plans for the fall bazaar Nov. 9 will be made.

Teen-Age Diets Poor

TORONTO (CP)—An Ontario department of health report shows that two of every three teenage girls in the province have a "poor" or "very poor" diet because of slimming fads.

The study says one of every three teen-age boys eats just as poorly.

It says girls are endangering their ability to withstand the strains of motherhood later.

Next to the slimming fad, a low consumption of milk was listed as the most important factor as a cause of the poor diet.

That Man in the Kitchen

Tasty Ways to Serve Eggs

By BASIL FITZGIBBON

Many good cooks will refuse to prepare a souffle unless they are in the proper frame of mind. Others will not bake a cake or bake pastry if they feel at all depressed. There is good reasoning behind these quirks, strange as it may seem; both pastry and souffles require the light touch and surely will be affected by the cook's frame of mind.

I realize it would be very dangerous to bring psychology into the kitchen, but the idea is worth some thought. In any event, I think some simple recipes for the days you feel in doubt would be well worth considering, and I would like to suggest a collection of recipes for shirred eggs which are simple but very appetizing.

SHIRRED EGGS WITH BACON AND CHEESE

Melt 1 teaspoon of butter in each of two shallow ramekins, and line each dish with two slices of broiled bacon and 2 or 3 slices of Swiss cheese. Carefully break two eggs into each dish and cover with 1 tablespoon of cream. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 6-7 minutes or longer if you wish to serve the eggs with firm yolks.

SHIRRED EGGS WITH TOMATOES

Peel 4 small tomatoes and slice thinly. Melt 1 1/2 teaspoons of butter in each of two shallow ramekins and cover the bottoms with a thin layer of browned bread crumbs. Add the slices of tomato and season with a little salt and pepper. Bake the tomatoes in a 350-degree oven for 5 to 6 minutes until they are soft but not mushy. Break 2 eggs into each dish and bake in a 350-degree oven for 6 to 7 minutes.

SHIRRED EGGS WITH WATERCRESS

(Individual Servings) One small bunch of watercress, 4 fresh eggs, 1/4 cup well-seasoned mashed potatoes, 5 teaspoons of butter, 6 tablespoons cream.

Clean the watercress thoroughly, and remove the stems. Reserve one or two sprigs for garnishing. Chop the remaining watercress finely and saute in 2 teaspoons of butter, for about 5 minutes. Add the watercress to the potatoes and mix well. Melt 1 1/2 teaspoons of butter in each of two shallow ramekins and cover the bottoms with the potato and watercress mixture. Make a hollow in the centre and carefully break two eggs into each dish, cover with three tablespoons of cream and bake in a 350-degree oven for 6 to 7 minutes or longer if desired to serve the eggs firm.

The recipes outlined above are far from complicated, and are easy to prepare. It is very obvious that the recipes follow a basic principle and will respond to various modifications such as the use of lamb kidneys or perhaps oysters. In fact, with a little imagination you can create some wonderful shirred egg dishes. Remember that once you remove the eggs from the oven they will continue to cook as a result of the heat from the dish and so it is better to remove the eggs a little early if you like them on the soft side.

Master Sparks Fashion

TORONTO, (CP)—Alfandri of Montreal, known as the dean of Canadian fashion, celebrated his 79th birthday Tuesday with a showing of his new holiday collection of formal and casual evening wear.

The collection is the second shown by the old master since he came out of retirement about two months ago.

His gowns and dresses, all characterized by an absence of horizontal seaming to achieve a long, slender but shapely silhouette, were described by the show's commentator, Cathy Smythe, as "clothes you can wear for as long as 20 to 25 years."

A pink evening gown Alfandri designed many years ago for his daughter, now a grandmother, was shown with a blue gown of almost identical design from his latest collection. Both are high fashion today.

B.C.-Born Doctor's Dream

Atomedic Hospital Dedicated in U.S.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A Canadian-born doctor saw his dream of a revolutionary new hospital concept come true here Wednesday as the world's first atomedic hospital was dedicated.

Industrial, business, medical and scientific leaders joined in the ceremonies officially opening the 22-room facility designed to utilize space, age equipment and reduce hospital costs significantly.

Dr. Hugh MacGuire, a Vancouver native who originated the idea of an atomedic hospital, described the concept of how medicine would open its heart to industry and science.

"Today we dedicate the first prototype of an atomedic hospital in which after more than eight years we can actually organize our research efforts," he told the 300 guests.

CARE FOR ALL

He said his hope is to find a way of producing a system of hospitals that can circle the globe "at a cost that everyone can afford."

Atomedics is a term coined to describe atomic-age medicine and MacGuire says he hopes to utilize the most modern equipment available.

USE COMPUTERS

The present hospital will include computers to record automatically such things as a patient's temperature. It is relayed by tiny transducers that can be strapped on the patient.

MacGuire emphasizes that the hospital is designed to relieve nurses and doctors of many routine duties which in turn will free them to devote more time to patient and their illnesses.

U.S. Oilmen Assessed $304,800

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A jury assessed a $304,800 penalty Wednesday against a group of Texas oilmen for drilling and operating a slanted oil well.

The jury found a well operated by H. M. Harrington Jr., Charles Lutes, Reid Allgood, Douglas Godfrey and J. W. Baton was bottomed under a neighbor's lease.

The case was the first jury trial of the many penalty suits filed by the Texas attorney-general in the wake of a directional drilling investigation. The state asked for more than $25,000,000 in penalties in the many suits, $3,600,000 in this case.

BCE Shareholder Starts Action Against Hydro

VANCOUVER (CP)—A second legal aftermath of the long court battle over provincial government expropriation of the B.C. Electric in 1961 came to light Wednesday when a Toronto holder of preferred BCE shares began an action against the now government-owned utility.

Ginny Skims Up Coast Of Labrador

HALIFAX (CP)—Hurricane Ginny, which flailed the Maritime provinces Tuesday with heavy rains and winds up to 100 miles an hour, was moving harmlessly up the Labrador coast Wednesday.

The storm, which created disruptions in communications, shipping schedules and fishing activities in the Maritimes, weakened rapidly as it approached Newfoundland.

Winds of less than 30 miles an hour were reported.

E. W. Vanstone seeks a court declaration that he is a preferred shareholder in the light of a judgment last July by then Chief Justice Sherwood Lett in which expropriation of the BCE was ruled constitutionally illegal. Vanstone claims he is entitled to redeem his shares in accordance with the contract with the BCE under which they were purchased.

SEEK EXTRA $18.70

Now before Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean in Supreme Court is an action by other debenture holders and their representatives for a court declaration that they are entitled to an additional $18.70 per share payment when the debentures are converted to B.C. Power Corporation stock.

The Power Corporation was the former sole owner of BCE but gave up all assets to the provincial government for a final price of $197,000,000.

$1,121,300 Art Switch

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fashion jammed the Parke-Bernet galleries for the opening art sale collection of "old" modern painters last night at auction and took home a $1,121,300 bundle to invest in "new" modern painters.

"The older painters," said Alrich, referring to Picasso, Gauguin and Miro, "no longer truly reflect my interest. I want to help young artists and the best way is to buy their paintings."

$127,000 SALE

The major masterpiece in the sale of 57 paintings was Money's Waterlilies. It was bought in spirited bidding by department store tycoon George Parkas of New York for $137,500.

Art collectors and dealers from all parts of the nation joined the Parke-Bernet galleries for the opening art sale collection of what will be a multi-million dollar session.

EXCITING YEAR

Gallery president Louis Maron said the prices bid were a barometer "of a very exciting year to come."

Other top prices were $110,000 for Gauguin's The Washer Woman, purchased by an anonymous midwestern collector; $100,000 for Picasso's Seated Nude, purchased by a Manhattan art dealer; and $37,500 for the Vuillard's Self Portrait, bought by an art agent.

PURCHASES DOUBLE

Australian purchases of American goods more than doubled in four years to $513,000,000 in 1962-63.

Viet Nam Police Edgy Girl Poses with Envoy Arrested in Saigon

SAIGON (AP)—Eyewitnesses said a plainclothes policeman arrested a young South Vietnamese girl shortly after she posed with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge for a photograph in front of the Caravelle Hotel yesterday.

A magazine photographer asked the girl, who was passing on a bicycle, to stop and stand next to the ambassador. The girl, who could speak English, exchanged a few words with Lodge.

DRIVERS QUERIED

Police questioned five chauffeurs about their activities while driving for foreign correspondents.

Police have increased their normally close watch recently because correspondents sometimes have been the first to know about impending demonstrations or public suicides. Various opposition groups often try to notify the press before instituting some action.

LONDON (AP)—Three Scottish typists were richer by £620 ($1,860) Wednesday—for the outlay of one shilling.

The shilling brought four pence three-penny postage stamps at a Glasgow post office. The stamps, printed to celebrate the Red Cross centenary, missed a printing process and show a white instead of a red cross.

On His Head Witness Takes Stand

LONDON (Reuters)—Court six at the Old Bailey adjourned for 15 minutes Wednesday—to allow a man in the prisoner's box to stand on his head.

Former wrestler Norbert Fred Rondel, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of demanding money with menaces, went down to the cells to do his head-standing exercise.

W. T. Williams, Rondel's lawyer, told the court that the former wrestler, judo expert and yoga devotee was too tense to testify and needed the exercise to loosen up. But when, an hour later Rondel again asked permission to stand on his head Judge Sir Ernest Roberts put his foot down.

"I can't keep granting your applications to exercise," he said.

Strike-Free Year Brings Raise

LONDON (AP)—The British Ford Company celebrated a strike-free year Wednesday by handing its 48,000 workers a five-per-cent pay raise. The award signalled a dramatic improvement in increased productivity and labor relations since the company dismissed 17 Communists and leftists as troublemakers last year.

Bishop Won't Budge

Waukegan, Ill. (UPI)—Efforts to legally remove Bishop Dionisije Milivojevic as head of the Serbian Eastern Orthodox diocese in the United States and Canada failed yesterday.

Lake County circuit judge Philip W. Yager denied an injunction sought by three newly-consecrated bishops and refused to name a receiver to take over several million dollars in church assets.

SEEKING CONTROL

The three bishops were seeking control of the diocese, which Bishop Dionisije still heads although he was ordered deposed by his church's council at Belgrade, Yugoslavia, in May.

The bishop's attorney, Gerald C. Snyder, Waukegan, told the court the church in Yugoslavia was controlled by the Communists.

Snyder said the Communists were trying to "divide and conquer" the church in America and take more than $1,000,000 from the church behind the Iron Curtain.

Attorneys for the three new bishops said they planned to file another motion in the case and the judge set a Dec. 6 hearing date for the new motion.

"God is on our side against the Communistic and atheistic attempts to break our church in the United States and Canada," Bishop Dionisije said after yesterday's ruling.

"American justice prevails against Tito's propaganda influence."

Snyder said the Senate Internal Security Committee was observing this legal dispute.

A Message From the President Here to Serve You All

This is almost an historic occasion—the first anniversary of the first Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau. Some years ago Bill Tindall and myself were associated in a business where customers complaints were not uncommon—some justified; some were not. In a lot of cases customers did not complain even though they had cause. The ones who did not complain were our biggest problem—we had no opportunity to rectify errors, no opportunity to know there was even any cause for complaint. They didn't come back. We discussed this on many occasions because contacting these customers did no good—they did not tell us their troubles and therefore we were unable to be of assistance to them. We "dreamed" of the opportunity to have an entirely non-partisan committee or panel to which both sides—buyers and sellers—could each present their side of the story. We knew that as long as both buyer and seller knew both sides of the story a happy settlement of all their differences was right to hand. That, in a nutshell, was how the idea of forming a local Better Business Bureau was brought to light. Better Business Bureaus are independent, non-profit membership organizations. A purpose of the Bureau is to oppose fraud, deception and/or unethical practices in the advertising, offering and selling of merchandise, securities, services, employment or anything of value to the public. The movement was founded in 1912 and there are now about 131 bureaus in operation. We are the newest baby in the family. However, I am proud to say, we are by no means the smallest. In our one year of operations we have received most wonderful support. My slate of officers and directors is, in my opinion, certainly as good as or better than at any comparable bureau.

E. M. SINCLAIR . . . bureau president

Bureau Not an Agency of Law

The Better Business Bureau, or has been a case of record in the past, is not an agency of law and does not give legal advice. Similarly, it is a matter of policy that the bureau does not handle a complaint that has been referred to an attorney. Needless to say, this point of policy does not stop approaches from time to time by individuals whose complaints against firms are matters more appropriate for legal action than for action by the Better Business Bureau. In such cases, bureau staff will usually advise a complainant to go to the proper authorities or to seek legal advice.

You'll Find

Our staff is small but as enthusiastic and energetic and anxious to please—as you will find. The Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau is here to serve you—to foster truth in advertising and to oppose fraud. We do not endorse or approve, in any manner, companies, products, services, investment, organizations or persons. Our members pay annual dues to help provide this free service to you, the residents of Vancouver Island.

Over 100

When we first started, we received about 90 per cent complaints and maybe 10 per cent enquiries—now we receive about 25 per cent complaints and 75 per cent enquiries. When we started we received about 10 calls per day. Now it is frequently over 100. Our membership list is quite impressive after only one year. New members are added each month, and a list will be mailed to you on application. Many of our members have advertisements in the pages devoted to our progress in this paper. Their efforts have helped to provide the services we offer to you.

Importance

To tender thanks to all of the persons and organizations who have helped us in the past year would be almost an impossible task and require a lot of space—so I would like to single out our managing director, Bill Tindall, his staff, our officers and directors, our members and lastly, because of your such vital importance—You—the public.

First Year Spectacular

The first year of operation has been one of spectacular growth and success for the Better Business Bureau of Vancouver Island.

From four founding member firms, the number of Vancouver Island firms belonging to the bureau has passed the 500 mark, and bureau officials anticipate that membership will reach 1,000 in the next year.

The year's activity also has seen a drastic change in the type of call the bureau receives.

When the bureau's office first opened in mid-September of 1962 and a deluge of calls flooded the office, requests for information were overshadowed by an overwhelming volume of complaints. Many of these complaints dealt with matters outside the scope of Better Business Bureau policy.

But the high rate of complaints quickly levelled off, bureau manager W. D. Tindall recalls, and today only 20 to 25 per cent of calls received are in the complaint category, with requests for information making up the bulk of the rest.

After months of investigation and preparation, the first official step taken in formation of the bureau came Aug. 14, 1962, when the Better Business Bureau of Vancouver Island was granted a certificate of incorporation as a society by the B.C. registrar of companies.

On Jan. 3 this year the bureau was notified that the Association of Better Business Bureaus, Inc., had accepted the Vancouver Island bureau's application for membership and the bureau was placed in a probationary category for one year.

At the same time the Association of Canadian Better Business Bureaus accepted the bureau as a member.

In its first year, the Vancouver Island bureau quickly accumulated voluminous files including reports from the Association of Better Business Bureaus and the National BBB.

and bulletins from 130 other bureaus in Canada, the United States, South America, Mexico and other parts of the world. "We believe that the large number of businessmen willing to support the bureau, financially as well as morally, to the benefit of the consumer, indicates a very healthy community," says Mr. Tindall.

Rigorous Rules Govern Bureau

The Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau, like all Better Business Bureaus, operates according to a rigorous set of principles.

Better Business Bureau: Are business organizations established for the purpose of fostering truth in advertising and opposing fraud, deception and unethical practices in the advertising, offering, and selling of merchandise, securities, services, employment or anything of value to the public;

Are fact-finding and fact-disseminating organizations which maintain an impartial attitude toward firms and individuals, expressing no opinions and issuing no endorsements or approvals;

Are not concerned with the system or means of distribution but rather with the advertising and selling practices used;

Small Staff Thorough In Big Job

The Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau has a staff of four persons working out of its office in suite 224 of the Yarrow Building, 645 Fort Street.

William D. Tindall is manager of the bureau and is responsible to the board of directors for its operation. He was retail appliances manager for McLennan, McFeely and Prior Limited until the firm closed its retail section early in 1962.

After that he worked actively for the formation of the Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau, until it became a reality a year ago.

Miss Eva Featherby started with the BBB when the office opened last year and with her background of office experience has been invaluable in setting up the many index and filing systems necessary to the operation of the bureau.

W. D. TINDALL . . . bureau manager

Problems Daily

She also takes care of the many telephone calls the bureau receives daily, the requests for information, the registering of complaints and the innumerable problems that have to be contended with in the bureau's office.

Stanley Fetley Jones has served 28 years with the RCMP, specializing in scenes of crime identification duties at Winnipeg, the crime detection laboratory at Regina, Vancouver and Victoria. He joined the BBB at its inception and has worked arduously with the other members in presenting the Better Business story to the public.

Miss Douglas lived in Toronto for 30 years before moving to Victoria this year. He was associated with the printing business and was for many years a member of the Toronto BBB and the Toronto Board of Trade. Mr. Douglas has called on many business firms in Victoria and other areas of Vancouver Island as a representative of the BBB.

Impartial Attitude

The Better Business Bureau movement has a number of firmly established policies. A general statement follows:

- Bureau will always maintain an impartial attitude toward all firms and individuals.
- The name of every inquirer shall not be kept confidential and shall not be used without express permission. The names of complainants shall not be divulged except as required in the normal course of bureau operations.
- The names of inquirers and complainants shall not be published without the express permission of the person or persons involved.

Moderate Action

In determining the justification of a complaint, a decision shall not be made without a full and complete consideration of all the factors involved.

- Approach all parties involved in business-consumer disputes with the attitude of a constructive moderator who is acting in the interest of fair business.
- Confidential information must be safeguarded by the strictest code of honor.

'Dedicated Citizens' Hailed by Leaders

Premier Bennett says members of the Vancouver Island Better Business Bureau are "custodians of peerless business ethics that preserve the right of every man to pursue the enterprise he chooses."

In one of several letters congratulating the bureau on its first year's operation, the premier says B.C. business men are known throughout the world for their splendid business practices.

Other letters congratulating the bureau have come from the mayor of Victoria, the reeve of Oak Bay and Esquimalt and the president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Dedicated

From Premier Bennett: "To the Better Business Bureau of Vancouver Island, my congratulations on a successful year of operation."

"The dedicated citizens who belong to this organization display and abide by commendable and noteworthy principles. They are the custodians of peerless business ethics that uphold and preserve the right of every man to pursue the enterprise he chooses. This purpose is worthy of praise, respect and attention."

"British Columbia business men are known for their splendid business practices. The products of our province are renowned wherever men consider quality at competitive prices. That these same products are making tremendous inroads in the vast theatre of world commerce in recent years speaks well indeed for our producers and manufacturers."

Enterprise

"Among the great network of spheres of trade it is necessary to include the vigilance and enterprise of the members of the Better Business Bureau of Vancouver Island. Together with their contemporaries throughout our homeland their concern is that British Columbia's business reputation shall remain high even to the shores of the farthest ocean."

PREMIER BENNETT

"A kinship of such policies earns my deep respect and my continued good wishes for all future years."

From Victoria Mayor R. B. Wilson:

"At the close of its first year of operation, it is indeed a pleasure to commend the Better Business Bureau of Vancouver Island on its great service to the citizens of this area. It is reassuring to all of us to know that the standard of business practice is being maintained at a high level, largely due to the surveillance of this organization."

From Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch:

"We are very gratified indeed to note that the Better Business Bureau has now completed one year in operation in this area. It is to be hoped that you will be around for a great many years in the future."

"This type of organization is something which has been badly needed in this community, and in this area particularly for some length of time."

Gratifying

"With best wishes for your continued success..."

From Esquimalt Reeve Alfred C. Wurtele: "On behalf of the people of this municipality I would like to congratulate the management of the Better Business Bureau of Vancouver Island at the end of their first year of operation."

"In Esquimalt and in the whole of the Victoria area there are a large number of older persons on small fixed pensions. Persons in this group may be subjected from time to time to unethical practices of fly-by-night salesmen and repairsmen. It is gratifying to know that your very active organization is in existence for their protection and in fact for the protection of the whole community."

Commended

From Victoria Chamber of Commerce president E. E. Pearlman:

"May I, on behalf of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, extend to your organization our heartfelt congratulations on your first year of operation. The first year is always a difficult one, and you, the officers and directors, and staff are to be commended upon your achievements. "The chamber has watched your progress with keen interest, and I want to wish you every success in the future."

Blast Damages Liquid Air Plant

The Canadian Liquid Air Co. working elsewhere, due to plant, 60 Dallas, was rocked shortly before noon yesterday by an explosion in the furnace room. No one was injured. The blast dislodged eight-inch concrete wall blocks and twisted a metal door. Employees who normally would have been working in the area were

Saturday Midnight Deadline For Fish Entries

Entries for the 1963 edition of the King Fisherman contest are still trickling into the Colonist offices and deadline for all entries will be midnight Saturday. Any entries received from weigh-in stations after that can not be included in the draw for hidden weight prizes or the competition for trophies and bursaries. Contest closed midnight Oct. 20.

To U.S. Market

Canadian Oil Sales May Improve by 1974

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian-produced oil will probably find a more receptive market in the United States in 10 or 15 years time, Dr. G. W. Govier, chairman of the Alberta Gas and Conservation Board, said Wednesday. Speaking during a press conference at the second Athabasca Oil Sands Conference, Dr. Govier said the increased markets in the United States is contingent on the success of exploration programs in some areas of the western States. Little success would tend to open the door for increased purchases from Canada. Greater markets would speed development of the Athabasca

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, October 31 — It's still not too late! Yes, you can still do yourself a big favour by buying a Canada Savings Bond on the easy instalment plan at the BANK OF MONTREAL. Just think, you can buy a $50 Canada Savings Bond for as little as $10.00 down payment. And by holding onto your bond until it matures, you will benefit by the generous average return on your investment. What's more, you can always redeem these bonds at full face value, plus accrued interest. If you haven't already bought your Canada Savings Bonds, the place to get them on the instalment plan is your nearest branch of "My Bank".

HERE'S A HALLOWEEN DINNER suggestion that I'm sure your family will enjoy... and I hope you have what it takes — which is LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT. Crisp, mellow and always uniform in flavour, Libby's Sauerkraut is high in appetite appeal and low in cost. Before you send the youngsters out 'trick-or-treating,' treat them to this delicious Libby's Sauerkraut dish.

GERMAN CRAUT
1 3-oz. can (10 cups) Libby's Sauerkraut, 2 2-cup bouillon cubes fat or butter
1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1 large onion, 1 cup boiling water.
Place sauerkraut, water, bouillon and cornstarch in a soupkan, and rapidly with end of the water in cooking. Add onion and bouillon and cook for 10 minutes. Cover and simmer gently until potato is cooked, 4 servings.

YOU'RE "FLIRTIN'" WITH DANGER unless you use GILLETTE'S DRAIN CLEANER once a week. For dangerous germs lurk in every drain. Try this remedy in the kitchen sink, the bathroom and the laundry. It takes Gillette's special cleaning, boiling action to quickly scour out muck and germs that collect in clogged-up sink drains. So, it's easy to see why Gillette's keeps drains running and sanitary... and why it always leaves your sink a safe place in which to wash dishes. Now is a good time to try Gillette's Drain Cleaner because your grocer is offering it at a special price. So pick up a can or two right away!

DO YOU SPEND MANY AND MANY A SLEEPLESS NIGHT because of a bad bronchial cough or the rasping and wheezing of asthma? Then here is good news for you from Mrs. G. Schofield of Toronto: "I have been subject to chronic bronchitis which has made me cough and rasp for breath. I also get asthmatic attacks in damp weather. I am thankful to say I have found that Ras-Mah Capsules give quick and satisfactory relief from my suffering." Yes, RAS-MAH Capsules bring almost instant relief — with no unpleasant after-effects. If you suffer from chronic bronchitis, stubborn bronchial cough, or asthma... do try Ras-Mah... Ras-Mah Greys Juniors for children.

NOT A SOAP... NOT A DETERGENT... yet when you add CALGON to your wash and rinse water, you get the cleanest wash you've ever seen. Calgon is the highly effective water conditioner that cleans away washing film, restores brightness and natural softness. Bedspreads look like new... towels fluff up and linens fairly gleam with cleanliness. That's because Calgon has removed washing film (the "bathtub ring" of the washing machine) that was causing your fabrics to look old before their time. Washer makers recommend Calgon water conditioner and so do I. Try Calgon and I think you will recommend it too.

HAVE YOU NOTICED how often your family's favourite dishes feature something good made with Monarch TEA-BISK? Tea-Bisk is an all-purpose mix that can be used for any number of taste treats. Try this recipe, using fluffy, golden Tea-Bisk topping... quick, easy, delicious!

CASSEROLE CAPRI
In a 1 1/2 quart casserole combine 1 lb. of condensed vegetable soup, 15-minute rice, 1 cup green beans (canned) and 1 lb. of ground beef hamburger which has been parboiled until lightly browned. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover with Tea-Bisk topping. Bake in 350 degree oven for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Serves 4 to 6.

I'VE FOUND A WAY to put new interest into breakfast with easy-to-eat GRAPE-NUTS. Try Grape-Nuts for a change. New, improved Grape-Nuts is the concentrated breakfast cereal with food energy in every spoonful. Made from wheat, Grape-Nuts provides a tasty and nourishing base on which to start the day. My first spoonful told me Grape-Nuts was like no other cereal... rich, nut-sweet and crunchy. When you're tired of the taste and texture of ordinary cereals — reach for Grape-Nuts. It provides the flavour-lift you want to bring a welcome change of pace to the breakfast menu. Start your day a little bit better with a cereal fresh from Post. GRAPE-NUTS!

Burma Problem

Deposed Premier Shakes Jailers

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The young soldier asked for a change of duty and got it immediately, with no questions asked.

It doesn't happen in many armies of the world today.

The soldier was one of the guards assigned to the compound where 54-year-old U Nu, deposed prime minister of this socialist-bound southeast Asian country, lives in solitude.

JAILERS SHAKEN

Nu, a deeply religious Buddhist, has had such a profound effect on his jailers, when he meditates and prays, that they are shaken by his reverence. Army commanders know this and make changes promptly when the men request it.

Nu was taken into custody in March, 1962, when Gen. Ne Win took over the government and established a military revolutionary council to rule the country.

He was placed with other politicians in a house at Hla-gaw Camp, a military rest establishment on the beautiful Hla-gaw Lakes about 25 miles north of Rangoon.

VISITORS LIMITED

Nu is allowed no regular visitors. His wife has seen him twice.

Nu rises about 4 a.m., just as Buddhist monks do. He meditates and gets his exercise by walking in the compound where usually four guards are stationed. He eats one meal a day, a special vegetable diet. Much of his time during the day is devoted to reading and writing. He retires in the early evening.

Ne Win treats him with respect, but there has been no indication when Nu will be released.

Informed sources say Ne Win continues to hold the prime minister "because he is protecting U Nu against politicians who would try to use him for their own ulterior purposes."

The military fears, these sources say, that Nu's influence over the masses might be exploited by anti-government elements.

A government spokesman said he is being held "for his own safety."

Despite inefficiency and corruption in his administration, Nu is still immensely popular among the 20,000,000 Burmese.

Garden Notes

It's Incredibly Rapid

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I've just come in from the garden after doing battle with chickweed, which must surely be the most persistent of all the annual weeds. All through my gardening life I have been making war on this pest, for hand-pulling chickweed under my mother's watchful eye is just about the first garden job I can remember doing and I suppose I'll be bucking it in the future as long as I can still bend down.

Chickweed is incredibly rapid in growth, the discouraging thing about it is that you can hand-weed a bed until not a trace of it remains, only to find a brand new crop of the stuff coming up in a couple of days.

This is difficult for home gardeners to understand. After all, if you pull up a row of radishes or petunias before they go to seed, no more of them come up. How is it possible for chickweed plants to spring up even after the bed has been carefully weeded a dozen times? Actually, this is due to a clever trick on the part of Mother Nature to guarantee the survival of her children.

If you plant a hundred radish seeds, chances are the whole works will come up within a week. But sow a hundred of the tiny chickweed seeds and nothing of the sort happens. A few may come up promptly, but Mother Nature is a clever old girl and she knows full well a spell of bad weather might kill off any one batch of seedlings, or animals or bugs might eat them or the man with the hoe might come along and scuffle them off.

She is not so foolish as to put all her eggs in one basket, so she arranges for the chickweed seed to germinate in dribs and drabs. Some may come up in a week, some in a month and some may take six months or more, so no matter what happens, at least one batch of seedlings will survive, set seed and thereby perpetuate the race. It is this delayed action on the part of some of the seeds that keeps chickweed coming up even in a carefully weeded bed.

Another reason why this weed is so troublesome is because we hang up the hoe in the toolshed too early in the fall. Chickweed is still coming up and setting and scattering its infernal seeds late in the season when our keenness for garden work is at a low ebb, and it succeeds in reinfesting our soil at a time when we are more interested in the Grey Cup playoffs than in weeding. The only practicable means of control in cultivated ground is to keep the hoe going until hard frost puts an end to germination.

At one time, chickweed was a serious problem in lawns, for the plant revels in the same growing conditions as those necessary for fine lawn grasses. Everything you did for the health and well-being of your grass would benefit the chickweed even more. The lawn mower can't touch the low-growing mat of chickweed and the plant is resistant to ordinary 2,4-D weedkiller solutions, so the patches spread wider and wider, crowding out the grass.

Fortunately, we have weedkillers which will take out chickweed-and clover-as clean as a whistle without damage to the lawn grasses. The English weedkiller Compotox is good; so is the Green Cross preparation Killex and the Ortho and Niagara brands of Clover and Chickweed Killer.

While the grass is not injured by these sprays, you'll have some ugly brown patches of dead chickweed for a few weeks until the grass closes in to cover the eyesores with green. Because of this unsightly stage, it is best always to try to catch a chickweed invasion early, while the weeds patches are still small and before the weed has had a chance to smother the grass.

The Sweet World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Better Man Than Marlon

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Marlon Brando has abandoned his idea of starring in the remake of Gunga Din. Marlon is taking a long time off to find out if he really wants to make another movie. It would do him good to return to the stage. The discipline of a nightly performance might force him to drop some of his affectations.

I shall screen if they put Debbie Reynolds in the movie role of Edith Piaf. This could happen in spite of Jack Warner's statement about searching for a French unknown. Please not Debbie. She's sweet and all that, but this role requires acting.

Larry Parks and Betty Garrett are living at the Salisbury Hotel in New York while they are in their respective plays. Larry's career nosedived during those investigations. But today he is a millionaire with the 17 large apartments he owns in southern California.

Jack Paar has forgiven Dottie Goodman for whatever she did to offend him, and after all these years, the talented blonde will be appearing on Jack's show Nov. 29. I won my bet unfortunately about Dottie's play. A Rainy Day in Newark—it closed within a week. But Dottie can still live high off the hog with her five-year contract at $100,000 a year for some TV commercials.

Judy Garland, say the rumors on Madison Avenue, will cut down to two shows a month instead of the present weekly grind. One a month would be even better from Judy's health point of view.

Vaughn Meader will be stopping in at Metro around Nov. 15 to talk about a role in The Broadway Melody of 1964.

Not Mrs. ART BUCHWALD, That's Who

Who Needs Cary Grant?

BEVERLY HILLS—The thing we like about going to California is that there is always something new happening out there. Beverly Hills, for example, is very worried about its men growing old, and there are all sorts of health clubs and beauty parlors devoted to helping men remain young.

The Olympian Spa For Men is run by a fiery woman named Aida Grey who, though a specialist in women's cosmetics, feels men have been neglecting themselves (except for Cary Grant) and something should be done about it.

Under one roof a man can get a facial, a body massage, chiropractic treatment, yoga lessons, manicure and hand treatment, hair styling, eyebrow and mustache shaping and lessons in visual poise, including the proper use of the hands, correct sitting, standing and walking positions.

For about $200 Miss Grey can make a new man out of you. Since we're always interested in self-improvement, we decided to put ourselves in Miss Grey's hands.

We were placed on an operating table and a licensed chiropractor started to work on our face. He kept pushing our cheeks down and our eyeballs up. It was explained men never use their face muscles and become soft and flabby and lose their tone. Even if you hiked 50 miles, it would have no effect on your face at all.

Once the chiropractor finished, an assistant started putting gobs of pore cleanser on our face mixed with a magic formula called Blue-Sno. Our face started to glow, the wrinkles started to disappear, and when we looked into the mirror we saw an 18-year-old boy staring back at us.

Then the yoga girl came in and we stood on our head for a half-hour. After she left, the hair stylist entered and studied our dome for 15 minutes. Finally, he decided on a design and with the care of a surgeon started to clip away.

He was followed by the eyebrow-shaper who worked diligently shaping each eyebrow to fit the style of our hair.

It was time for our visual poise lesson. Another young woman entered the room. She was appalled at our posture and how we walked. She didn't like the way we held our hands and was shocked at the way we slid into a chair.

For the next hour we practised standing up and sitting down. There were so many things to unlearn.

Well, you can imagine how excited we were to get back to the hotel room and report to our wife.

But when we opened the door, she screamed: "Get out! You have the wrong room!"

"It's me, your husband," we shouted.

"What did they do to you?" she cried.

"They made me look like Cary Grant."

"But I liked you the way you were," she said.

"Well, you better get used to it," we told her. "It's too late to go back." For the rest of the time in California we lived as strangers. She said we were too young for her.

Help Perplexed Help Bereaved

A newspaper reporter suffered a death in his family.

He discovered that a lot of well-meaning friends had tried to be helpful to him in his sad hour, but that few knew what to say or what to do. As a result, he determined to interview ministers, rabbis and priests in various parts of the country to see what their practised wisdom had to suggest.

His investigations yielded a helpful guide to the perplexed who would help the bereaved. Here's his little list:

● "Don't try to buck them up." The person who has up." It only makes a young man feel worse when you on a woman who had lost her say. "Come now, buck up, brother. I didn't know your Don't take it so hard." A man who has lost his wife must "Tell me about him." The take it hard if he loved her, woman started talking and they discussed her brother for an hour. Afterward, she said: "I feel relieved now for the first time since he died."

● "Don't try to divert them." It is far better, when making a condolence call to sit silently and say nothing, than to make obvious attempts to distract. When the visitor leaves, reality hits the mourner, or all the harder.

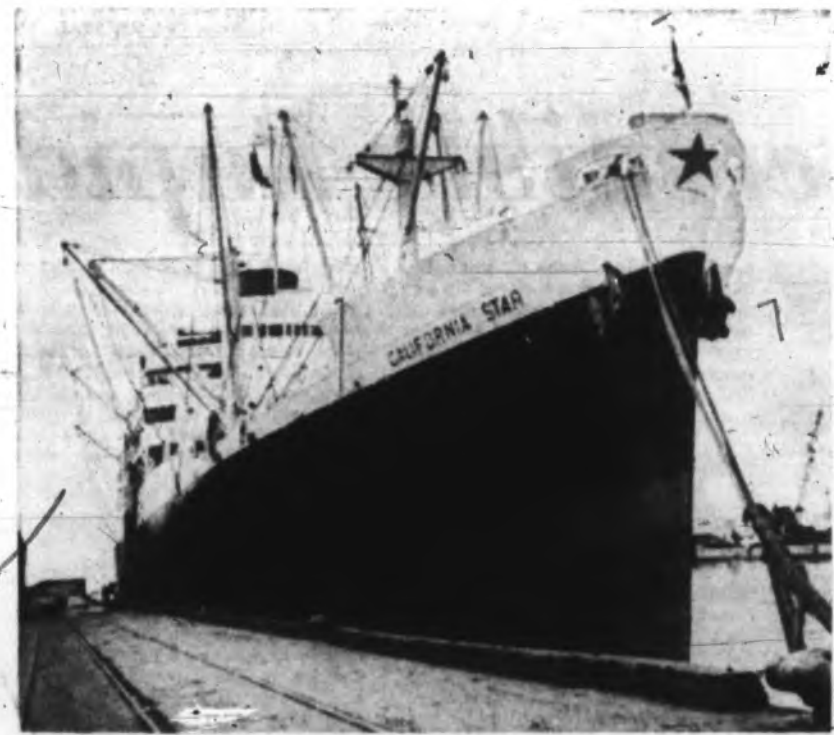

● "Don't be afraid to talk." "Don't be afraid to talk about the person who has passed away." One rabbi called friends feel worse when you on a woman who had lost her say. "Come now, buck up, brother. I didn't know your Don't take it so hard." A man who has lost his wife must "Tell me about him." The take it hard if he loved her, woman started talking and

● "Let them talk." Friends worry about their ability to say the right things. They ought to be worrying about their ability to listen.

● "Perform some concrete act." A concrete deed, though small in itself, carries the immense implication that you care.

● "Swing into action." Action is the symbol of going on living. Sorrowing people tend to drop out of things. By "swinging into action" with your friend, you help build a bridge to the future.

● "Get them out of themselves." Once you have your friend doing things for himself, his grief is nearly cured. Once you have him doing things for others, it is cured. Sympathy is the mark of our humanity. But we need to be trained in its art and its application. What that newsman learned, more of us need to know.

Cruise Ahead

Cargo-Liner Here With Ferry Engines

By DON GAIN

A frequent visitor to Victoria is the cargo-liner California Star now in Esquimalt unloading engines for the new government ferries.

She was at Ogden Point long enough yesterday to discharge general cargo and pick up nine tons of frozen salmon.

RIGID SCHEDULE

"In and out, out and in, that's it," said Capt. Ronald Brownbill. "We'll be away by midday Thursday."

Keeping to a rigid schedule the California Star gives punctual passenger and freight service between the Pacific coast and the U.K.

ONE OF FOUR SHIPS

She is one of four ships on this run for the Blue Star Line of London. The others are Caledonia, Canadian and Colorado Star.

"All 40 ships owned by the company have 'star' in their names," the captain said.

The 9,640-ton (deadweight) vessel has an all-British crew of 60, accommodation for 12 passengers.

Clean, comfortable cabins, a pleasant dining saloon and lounge, deck space to roam or recline on, bar service, good food, all make for a relaxing six-week cruise from here to London.

City Cadet B.C. Leader

Leading air cadet in B.C. is Sgt. Richard Cockburn, 1051 Hampshire, of 89 Kinsmen Air Cadet Squadron.

He has been awarded the Hudson's Bay Company trophy for flying training at Chilliwack this summer.

Three passengers disembarked at Victoria yesterday, the final two will leave when the ship reaches Vancouver.

Passengers are waiting in San Francisco and Los Angeles, will be in London in time for Christmas.

The 474-foot cargo-liner was built by Harland and Wolff of Belfast in 1945. Her beam is 63 feet.

MINED HURRICANES

Capt. Brownbill said his ship had not encountered the recent hurricanes and gales along her route.

"When hurricane Flora was in Cuba we were in Curacao," he said. "We went round the next one, Mona, or whatever her name was. There was a big swell running out there but as for the storms, we avoided the lot. Sheer luck, I guess."

Dutch Road Scheme

Gaglardi Won't Bog Down

By TERRY HAMMOND

Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi jetted home from a week in Holland yesterday confident he has found a road construction process which can save his department millions of dollars.

He said the Dutch method of building highways through unstable ground is likely to have a major impact here.

DOUBLE EFFECT

Not only is it likely to save large sums of money on certain projects, it will mean roads can be built through terrain which location crews currently try to work their way around.

The minister said his visit to Holland resulted from talks he had here earlier this year with a firm of Dutch engineers.

BOGGY-GROUND PLAN

They outlined their system of boggy-ground treatment to B.C. engineers and the minister's flying visit was the result. He was accompanied on the trip by assistant deputy highways minister Fraser MacLean.

The minister said that until recently the only way to build stable road through boggy soil structures was to remove the muck and replace it with sandy material—a costly process.

Then came a system of driving hollow well-casings into the muck at intervals and filling them full of sand before hoisting them out of the ground again.

The sand-drain system was an improvement but it had a major disadvantage — forcing the casing into the ground tended to pressure-seal the adjacent porosity with the result that drainage was not always satisfactory.

With the Dutch system the porosity is not affected. A drill-bit with a water-jet tip is let down into the soil, washing a quantity of the muck to the surface. The bit is removed and the water holds the sides of the hole in place. Sand is then poured into the hole and the water is displaced.

With such sand drains spaced at frequent intervals the Dutch have been able to build miles of first class highway through solid muck and peat bog.

Mr. Gaglardi said practically no settling takes place and that which does occur is uniform.

Highway department engineers are being familiarized with the system and a test project will be set up.

If the process works as well here as it does in Holland, it will be specified in future contracts where unstable material is involved.

U.S. Agents Captured By Cubans

Canadians Among Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro says Cuba has captured several U.S. Intelligence Agents, including two Canadians, and they face possible death sentence.

The Cuban premier, addressing his country by radio and television from Havana Wednesday night, accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of systematically raiding Cuba.

He said the CIA used several vessels including one based at West Palm Beach, Fla., which he described in detail.

NAMES CANADIANS

Castro named the Canadians as Ronald Patrick Lee and William David Mean. He said they were captured after bringing in 18 cans of explosives concealed inside foam rubber.

He charged the two arrested Canadians with trying to get through customs with canned food, grenades and other explosives.

LANDED PLANES

The Canadians, Castro said, piloted a Canadian commercial plane that landed at Havana airport Oct. 24.

The premier showed his television audience incendiary grenades he said were found inside cans the Canadians transported. The grenades, he said, would stick to any metal object and the containers were labelled as fruit preserves, made in the United States.

Castro declared: "This is the aid the United States government is sending Cuba for the hurricane."

"Canadian authorities have no

Plomer Charges Not Dismissed

EDMONTON (UPI)—Conservative MP Marcel Plomer Wednesday denied that charges made by former navy commander Commodore James Plomer were dismissed by the Commons defence committee.

In a letter published in the Edmonton Journal, Mr. Plomer said "violent exception was taken" to the story by members of the committee.

"No such decision was arrived at," said Mr. Plomer.

Commodore Plomer made the charges in Maclean's magazine two months ago. The defence department heard rebuttal of the charges from Vice-Admiral Herbert Rayner, chief of the naval staff.

The letter said in part: "The correspondent presumably drew his own conclusions but they certainly were at variance with the actions of the committee which had merely concluded for the time being its questioning of Commodore Plomer."

Mr. Plomer said the committee has not arrived at any recommendations as a result of the testimony, which it still was hearing.

Population Passes 19,021,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population reached an estimated 19,021,000 at Oct. 1 for an increase in one year of 538,000 or 2.8 per cent.

Ontario led the way in numerical growth—117,000—while British Columbia, Alberta and Newfoundland shared the top percentage increases—all 2.3 per cent. B.C.'s population is now 1,708,000.

Ottawa Weighs Fish Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—The health and fisheries departments are considering legislation to ban the sale of smoked fish packed in sealed containers unless rendered sterile by heat, Fisheries Minister Robichaud said Wednesday.

He told the Commons in reply to a question from former fisheries minister J. Angus Maclean that there is evidence to suggest that packing smoked fish in impermeable plastic wrappers increases the risk of botulism poisoning.

NINE U.S. DEATHS

There had been no illnesses in Canada in the last three years from this source, Mr. Robichaud said. However, in that period there were nine deaths and a number of non-fatal illnesses in the United States.

The U.S. government issued a warning about smoked fish products from the Great Lakes.

Mr. Robichaud said Canadian consumers should be informed that cooking destroys the toxic substance.

Banks Refuses to Comment On SIU Walkout Reports

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal C. Banks, president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (I.U.C.), refused to comment Wednesday night on a reported walkout of SIU members from Canadian ships in United States ports.

The walkout was reported Wednesday night by the Detroit Free Press but the captain of a Canadian ship in Detroit Harbor later said there had been no walkout from his ship.

HAVEN'T HEARD

"I haven't heard of any walkouts of any of the Canadian ships," said Captain James Patterson of the Baygeorge in a marine telephone interview. The ship is operated by the Baywater Shipping Company Limited of Brockville, Ont.

"I just have no comment to make," Mr. Banks said Wednesday night.

FIVE UNIONS

Mr. Justice Victor L. Dryer, chairman of the federal trusteeship which has taken over five Canadian maritime unions including the SIU, said he hadn't heard of the SIU walkout.

"We'll have to see about that tomorrow," Mr. Justice Dryer said in a telephone interview. He said the trustees were to meet with the SIU executive today.

NDP Wins Yale

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—A judicial recount has reversed the Sept. 30 provincial election result in Yale constituency and given an election victory to New Democratic Party candidate William Hartley over Social Credit incumbent Irvine Corbett.

County Court Judge F. K. Grimmett said last night the recount gave Mr. Hartley 1,601 votes compared with 1,591 for Mr. Corbett.

Mr. Corbett immediately announced he would appeal.

Customer Unhappy

Compleat Interior Decorator

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—For a painter claiming 20 years' experience, Wylie Hurst of nearby River Canard did an "incredibly bad job" for Mrs. Doreen Brown, also of River Canard.

He was hired to paint the interior of Mrs. Brown's house, and did just that. Included were walls, floors, ceilings, two chesters, a bed spread, the freezer, washer, drier, drapes, bedroom dresser, wall-to-wall carpeting in one room, two clocks and a kitchen pot.

After two days of listening to both sides of the story in magistrate's court, Judge Lawrence Deziel Wednesday awarded Mrs. Brown $500 damages.

She sued for $3,000, but testimony disclosed less damage was caused.

Hurst started work Feb. 17 of 1962 after Mrs. Brown paid him a $200 deposit. Mrs. Brown said each time she tried to stop the painter he told her she was seeing only a half-finished job.

"The quality of the work done by the defendant was incredibly bad," Judge Deziel said. In answer to Hurst's counter-claim against Mrs. Brown for payment of the balance owing him for the job the magistrate said: "It would appear that what he has already received is substantially more than the work is worth."

Miners Face Longest Night

PEINE, Germany (UPI)—Three miners, trapped 262 feet underground since last Thursday, learned Wednesday they must spend at least another night in their subterranean prison.

"It's so we can get you out safe and well," rescue workers told the trapped men through a telephone line.

After a pause of obvious disappointment, rescuers heard the men reply, "Oh... okay... that's okay."

Drilling had been stopped in the two 25-inch rescue shafts which have been steadily driving down to their underground chamber while necessary precautionary measures were completed.

The drilling was stopped at 190 feet and most of the day was spent fitting steel tubing inside the shafts. At nightfall, rescue workers poured cement around the pipe to make a water-proof shield and prevent underground water seeping into the holes.

Only when all this work has been completed can the drilling of the final 65 feet begin. Mine officials said it would be late today or probably early Friday before the men can be brought out.

Cease-Fire

Peace Rules Sahara

BAMAKO, Mali (AP)—King Hassan II of Morocco and President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria have signed a cease-fire agreement pledging themselves to halt the shooting in their Sahara war on Saturday and submit to the Organization of African Unity their dispute about where the frontier should run.

Hassan and Ben Bella signed the agreement Wednesday before more than 100 correspondents in the Bamako presidential palace.

SELASIE EFFORT

Other signers were Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, who intervened personally in an effort to settle the month-old conflict, and the host of the summit conference, President Modibo Keita of Mali.

By coincidence, about the time the truce agreement was reached the Moroccan government in Marrakech announced a flare-up of fighting.

DEMILITARIZED

Moroccan troops are to withdraw from all the desert area they occupy which is claimed by Algeria and the area is to be a demilitarized zone under supervision of Ethiopian and Mali officers pending a final settlement.

Hassan and Ben Bella agreed to submit their dispute to a special meeting of the Organization of African Unity, which will try to establish responsibility for the outbreak of hostilities and also seek an agreement on the borderline.

A 62-year-old Mill Bay man was found dead near his overturned boat on the west shore of Saanich Inlet at 7:30 a.m. yesterday.

Arthur Geydon Hemming, a civilian stationary engineer at the navy establishment at Colwood, was last seen alive by neighbors at dusk Tuesday.

"He was probably going out fishing for an hour or so," his son-in-law James Jarvie said last night. "He was due at work in Colwood at midnight."

ABOUT 12 HOURS

Three Bamberton cement works employees, arriving for work by water from Saanich, found the boat with the body nearby at the shoreline one-third of a mile south of Bamberton. Police said the body had been in the water about 12 hours.

Cause of death was thought to be exposure or drowning. Duncan coroner Dr. J. S. Goodbrand said an inquiry will be held.

ARM LOOPED

When Mr. Hemming was found he had one arm looped through the bowline of the boat, police said.

A net, lifejacket and other contents were underneath the 10-foot fiberglass catboat or floating in the water.

TIDE RECEDED

Police believe the boat may have drifted ashore at high tide, caught on a rock and overturned as the tide receded.

The Hemmings moved to the Mill Bay waterfront from Victoria about three months ago.

Mr. Hemming was born in Leamington, England, and came to Canada at the age of six with his family. They lived in the east until 1909 when they moved to Alberni.

LOST IT IN FIRE

Mr. Hemming had his own sawmill there but lost it in a fire at the start of the depression. He came to Victoria in the 30's and worked for Crowe-Gossnaw Lumber Co. until he went to the defence department about 10 years ago.

He was an enthusiastic hockey fan and loved camping and fishing.

SURVIVORS

Survivors are the widow, Beatrice; three daughters, Mrs. June Jarvie, 40; Mrs. Mary, 38; and Mrs. Laureen, 36; and three grandchildren and his mother, Mrs. Violet Hemming, 3050 Chown Place in Victoria.

"We just finished celebrating his mother's 88th birthday," Mr. Jarvie said. "We were looking forward to seeing him again this weekend. His wife had gone to Quesnel to visit their daughter there."

Alliance Saves Liberals

OTTAWA (CP)—A surprise Conservative move to kill key tax proposals in the government's economic program was blocked Wednesday by a voting alliance of Liberals, New Democrats, Social Crediters and Creditists.

It was the 10th roll-call vote in the Commons on which the minority Liberal government has staked its life in a test of non-confidence.

FORCED VOTE

Former Finance Minister George Nowlan forced the vote by trying to halt second reading—approval in principle—of a government measure implementing the tax proposals announced by Finance Minister Gordon in his June 13 budget.

His motion that the tax measure be shunted to the Commons Banking and Commerce Committee for study—instead of proceeding through the second reading stage—was defeated by a vote of 126 to 78.

TEN BALK

Ninety-seven Liberals were supported by 11 New Democrats, 10 Creditists and eight Social Crediters to turn back the 78 votes mustered by the official Conservative opposition.

Impaired But Not Immobile

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—There are some things alcohol can't impair.

Harold R. Stark, 63, of Oshawa was fined $100 Tuesday for impaired driving, but police testified he passed one of their sobriety tests with ease.

Although he failed to walk a straight line, he did well at picking up coins from the police station floor.

"How come?" asked Magistrate Harry Jermyn.

"Well," replied Stark, "I'm a Scotsman."

Port Alberni Mayorality Goal of Five

PORT ALBERNI—There are now three aldermen and two outsiders in the running for office of mayor of Port Alberni.

Secondary school teacher Ald. Earle Bowen and West Coast Advocate manager I. R. (Irving) Wilson both announced their candidacy on Tuesday. Already in the ring were Ald. George Folkard, Ald. Les Hammer and Benjamin F. Wright.

"I am offering myself as a candidate because I feel we need fresh blood in city hall and a new approach in the handling of municipal affairs," Mr. Wilson said.

FULFORD—Robert Patterson was elected trustee for the south end of Salt Spring Island at the annual meeting of School District No. 64 (Gulf Islands) this week.

Mr. Patterson, who had been named to fill out the 1962-63 term vacated last year by A. D. Dane, was re-elected unanimously.

The meeting heard the school trustees' report read by J. M. Campbell of Saturna Island, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. J. Sturdy.

Mr. Dane was chairman of the meeting, and Miss Bea Hamilton acting secretary.

ALBERNI—Septic tanks which are passing into disuse in Alberni's newly sewered area should be filled in to prevent future trouble, Alberni council has suggested.

Mayor Fred Bishop pointed out that the danger included caving in of old septic tanks and the additional health hazard from stagnation of effluent.

A report from the sewer committee showed that over 80 per cent of the properties to be served by the system are now connected. The majority of the other 20 per cent are held up because of difficulty in obtaining services of contractors due to excessive demands. Chairman Ald. George Dunbar said the committee will submit a full report to council on completion of the entire sewer project.

PORT ALBERNI—Plans to host directors of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. at a reception in Barclay Hotel on Monday, Nov. 4, were discussed at the Chamber of Commerce meeting.

The social event will follow a directors' meeting to be held here on the same day.

Hon. J. V. Clynne, chairman of the MB & PR board, will be among 17 or 18 directors and company officials expected to attend.

Al Parker and E. G. Stroyan had been appointed to make arrangements for the dinner.

TOFINO—Remie Audette, shovel engineer at Lowry Bros. Logging Co. camp at Catface Mountain, is in Tofino General Hospital recovering from injuries suffered when a fire on the shovel blew out and struck his hand.

DUNCAN—Herd Road near Maple Bay Tuesday night was the scene of a two-car collision causing an estimated damage of $600, police said.

No one was injured and the drivers involved were Ernest Frech of Mill Bay and William Richer of Duncan.

GANGES—RCMP at Ganges have stated that they are looking forward to a safe and sane Halloween, but warn that any acts of vandalism will be severely dealt with. Damage to highway signs can incur penalties up to $500.

Danish Boatmen to Refit Famed Yacht

By KLAUS MÜNSTER height and length and in present owner, she is tied up at the Maple Bay Marina in Bird's Eye Cove, waiting for a refit.

Sailors refer to her as yawl, and without mentioning her age or her price, consider the Diamond Head as one of the finest sailing yachts in the Pacific Northwest.

Her graceful curves speak of art, good breeding and performance. Some days ago her master, Seattle businessman Henry Kotkins, entrusted her to the experienced skill of the three principals of the Maple Bay Marina—John, Arne and Leif Bentzen.

Under her original name, Apache, she circled the world twice and her trim hull piled the Pacific in the race between Los Angeles and Honolulu in 1954.

During this competition one of her 15-crew members fell overboard at night.

In vain she cruised the area for many hours and then, grief-stricken, continued her voyage.

However, the man, given up for lost, was fished alive from the ocean a day later by another yacht.

One of the Bentzen brothers, seafarers and boatbuilders from Denmark who came to Canada six years ago, said the Diamond Head's two-ton main mast will be lifted by the recently installed five-ton mast crane in the next few days.

He explained the new crane is capable of handling the gear of most sailing vessels.

Until February the yawl will remain here to be prepared for another racing adventure in the Pacific next summer between San Francisco and Tahiti.

Arne Bentzen said she carried the best and latest marine equipment he has ever seen, and his brother John added, although 15 experienced sailors are needed to handle the Diamond Head in races, cruising only requires Mr. Kotkin's family of five.

With full sail she develops a speed of 15 miles an hour and in emergencies and harbor manoeuvres heavy-duty diesels take over.

Although the Diamond Head is an exceptional sight here, the Maple Bay Marina caters mainly to large boats and a number of bathhouses shelter a considerable investment in luxury craft.

The reputation of the three young Danish brothers, who hail from a seacoast town 30 miles north of Copenhagen, has earned them the confidence of yachtsmen along the North American west coast.

Arne Bentzen said with their seaplane they can give the fastest possible service in emergencies anywhere in West Coast waters.

On several occasions Arne has landed the plane beside a broken-down cruiser to perform necessary repairs.

With Americans being their main customers, Arne and his brothers may pick up a boat in the United States, cruise it to Bird's Eye Cove and, returning the craft to its home base, bring another one to Vancouver Island for refit, repair, or winter maintenance work.

The trio took over the marina three years ago, coming from Canoe Cove on the Saanich Peninsula where Arne and John built power and sailing vessels.

Back in Denmark they learned to sail as other children learned to walk. Most of the boats they designed and built in their homeland they exported to the U.S.

"That is one of the main reasons why we came to Canada, as we felt we should go where we can sell our boats," Arne concluded.

Russians Need Bridge? WINNIPEG (CP)—If the Russians took up contract bridge it might help ease world tensions, says Leo Seewald of St. Paul, Minn.

"Bridge is played all over the world. It's the kind of game where people can sit down and get to know each other. Of course the Russians aren't playing bridge yet—perhaps if they take up the game it will help ease world tensions."

A director of the American Contract Bridge League, Mr. Seewald and his wife were in Winnipeg for the annual mid-American - Canadian tournament which drew 400 players from the western provinces and from Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Iowa.

Both he and his wife became life masters of the game in 1951, but he says his wife—"my favorite partner"—is still the better player.

And, he says, the best bridge in the world now is being played in North America, despite the fact Italy has won the Bermuda Bowl, an European-American champions, for the last five years. The Italians, he said, take one group of players and train them year after year for international competition, while the North American team changes each year.

This canvassing is carried out under the UNICEF, United Nations children's fund.

Come! He's Shot Kids Frantic Mother Cried

By PETER CARTER-PAGE

NANAIMO—Inquest in this city's newest multiple killing—the shooting of Glenda Salo, 5; Roy Salo, 13, and their father Erling, 45, Tuesday night—opened yesterday at 4 p.m. and was adjourned to Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Coroner Russell Inkster presided at the brief hearing.

The double murder and suicide might have been a greater tragedy if two older daughters had not left home to go to a show brief minutes before the shooting.

RECONSTRUCTION

Police reconstructed events this way:

At 7 p.m. Wiebecke Salo, 18, and her sister Kirsty, 16, were picked up by a friend, Bill Clift, and went out.

Minutes later Erling, Waldeemar Salo, wartime Norwegian fighter pilot, came to the home of his estranged wife, Mrs. Irene Asta Salo, and family at 605 Lambert Street in Harewood.

He apparently had been drinking, and broke open the front door of the duplex. He had a .303 rifle with him.

A family argument developed, culminating in the shooting of the two children.

SETTLED DOWN

Mrs. Salo evidently tried to take the gun away from her husband, failed, and ran screaming from the house.

Mr. Salo is then thought to have turned the gun on himself.

John Costa Rita, who lives at 606 Lambert, directly across the street, told the Colonist he and his wife Vicky had just settled down to watch Gunsmoke on television when there was a pounding on the door and it was flung open.

PHONED RCMP

Mrs. Salo rushed into the house shouting, "Quick! Come quick! He's gone crazy. He's shot the kids."

Mr. Rita, Nanaimo Regional Hospital orderly, at once phoned the RCMP. He then rushed across the street, kicked aside the debris from the broken front door and ran into the house.

POOL OF BLOOD

"I saw Glenda lying in a pool of blood," he said, "and Salo lying nearby with an old Lee-Enfield rifle in his hand. He was still alive, but had apparently shot himself in the stomach. I kicked the rifle out of his hand. The RCMP arrived very quickly but Salo died shortly after they got there."

"I didn't see the boy. I learned later that the police had found him dead in the basement."

NEWCOMERS
"The Salos were newcomers to the district," he continued, "so we didn't know them very well but Mrs. Salo had told us that she was separated from her husband and had been having trouble with him. I didn't hear any shots and if I had I would have thought they were fireworks at this time of the year."

The elder daughters were taken to the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Halmer Wetten,

Farm, Like Family, Is Hard to Build

By Klaus Muentzer

WESTHOLME

The saga of Vancouver Island's farming community would be incomplete without the story of Carl Quist, his wife Maria and their three children who struggled for many years to build up a prosperous farm in the Westholme flats.

Except for the youngest boy, Norman, who took over the farm three and a half years ago, their other two children have left the Island.

Their daughter Mary is married to a Royal Canadian Air Force man stationed in France, and the oldest son, Byrd, became a diesel expert on the mainland.

which took out eight acres of their land when it was built in 1959

Trying times gnawed away many years of their lives but their friendly warmth remained as did their pioneer spirit and humor.

As many immigrants, Carl Quist arrived in Canada with little money but full of hope and determination to make this country his new homeland.

In 1923 the young Dane from Flin landed in Quebec, and at Toronto, he found work on a farm.

For $1 a day he labored, until five months later, in September, the early frost drove him to the West Coast.

After three weeks on a Fraser Valley farm with meagre pay and a barn as his quarters, another seven months went by before he finally was offered work on the old Heather Bank farm at Cobble Hill.

A little more than a year later the Danish farmer's son was hired to manage the farm of Cowichan pioneer David Alexander, who had come to the Island from Australia in 1862.

Mr. Quist recalled the owner, then in his 80s, told him of the hardships the first settlers encountered, of natives who were not too fond of the white intruders, and the Danish newcomer realized his own lot was somewhat easier.

Following the first five years on the Alexander farm, which is now a built-up area with houses and schools, Mr. Quist rented the operation for an other five years and married his Danish-born wife.

Returning from a trip to Denmark in the mid-30s, the Quist family found its present home, after Mr. Quist had bought the 160-acre sweet pea farm of Captain Alex Matthews at the Westholme flats.

From the smallest child up to the father the farm became a family affair over the next tollsome years.

"There was no animal on the farm, not even a cat. The manure was knee deep in one of the run-down buildings and everybody helped to clear 40 acres of land by hand," said Mr. Quist.

With the last funds a pig was bought, but soon afterward it was stolen. The only milk cow was purchased for $25 and friends helped.

The Quists began to butcher and peddle meat and vegetables. The old one-ton truck labored through the Cowichan Valley and the circle of customers eventually included logging camps as far west as Cowichan Lake, the King's Daughters' Hospital, Queen Margaret's School and other establishments.

Eventually turning to dairying the Quists found prices deteriorating and another enterprise was started: raising heifers and pigs and sheep and selling them at auctions at the farm.

At the same time they began to grow vegetable seeds and Mrs. Quist recalled, although the latter was the most heart-breaking work, their seeds became widely known for fine quality.

When seeds were imported after the last war from overseas at much lower prices the Quist farm entered its present status and gradually became a specialized dairy operation.

With pride Mr. and Mrs. Quist recall that their children were the nucleus of the first 4-H Holstein Club in this area and the training prepared them for a successful life.

Now, with 100 Holsteins of which 40 are milkers, the Quist farm has long become a symbol of success.

Frequently the animals are quoted in the monthly Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association's reports for above-average production, and the new owner, Norman Quist, carries on in the same enterprising spirit as his parents did many years ago.

U.S. Agents Captured By Cubans

Canadians Among Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro says Cuba has captured several U.S. Intelligence Agents, including two Canadians, and they face possible death sentence.

The Cuban premier, addressing his country by radio and television from Havana Wednesday night, accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of systematically raiding Cuba.

He said the CIA used several "vessels" including one based at West Palm Beach, Fla., which he described in detail.

NAMES CANADIANS

Castro named the Canadians as Ronald Patrick Lee and William David Mean. He said they were captured after bringing in 18 cans of explosives concealed inside foam rubber.

He charged the two arrested Canadians with trying to get through customs with canned food, grenades and other explosives.

LANDED PLANES

The Canadians, Castro said, piloted a Canadian commercial plane that landed at Havana airport Oct. 24.

The premier showed his television audience incendiary grenades he said were found inside the Canadian plane. The grenades, he said, would stick to any metal object and the containers were labelled as fruit preserves, made in the United States.

Castro declared: "This is the aid the United States government is sending Cuba for the hurricane."

Population Passes 19,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population reached an estimated 19,021,000 at Oct. 1 for an increase in one year of 338,000 or 1.8 per cent.

Ontario led the way in numerical growth—117,000—while British Columbia, Alberta and Newfoundland shared the top percentage increases—all 2.3 per cent. B.C.'s population is now 1,708,000.

Ottawa Weighs Fish Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—The health and fisheries departments are considering legislation to ban the sale of smoked fish packed in sealed containers unless rendered sterile by heat, Fisheries Minister Robichaud said Wednesday.

He told the Commons in reply to a question from former fisheries minister J. Angus Maclean that there is evidence to suggest that packing smoked fish in impermeable plastic wrappers increases the risk of botulism poisoning.

NINE U.S. DEATHS

There had been no illnesses in Canada in the last three years from this source, Mr. Robichaud said. However, in that period there were nine deaths and a number of non-fatal illnesses in the United States.

The U.S. government issued a warning about smoked fish products from the Great Lakes.

Mr. Robichaud said Canadian consumers should be informed that cooking destroys the toxic substance.

Banks Refuses to Comment On SIU Walkout Reports

MONTREAL (CP)—Hal C. Banks, president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), refused to comment Wednesday night on a reported walkout of SIU members from Canadian ships in United States ports.

The walkout was reported Wednesday night by the Detroit Free Press but the captain of a Canadian ship in Detroit Harbor later said there had been no walkout from his ship.

HAVEN'T HEARD

"I haven't heard of any walkouts of any of the Canadian ships," said Captain James Patterson of the Bayview in a marine telephone interview. The ship is operated by the Bayview Shipping Company Limited of Brockville, Ont.

"I just have no comment to make," Mr. Banks said Wednesday night.

FIVE UNIONS

Mr. Justice Victor L. Dwyer, chairman of a federal trusteeship which has taken over five Canadian maritime unions including the SIU, said he hadn't heard of the SIU walkout.

"We'll have to see about that tomorrow," Mr. Justice Dwyer said in a telephone interview.

He said the trustees were to meet with the SIU executive today.

NDP Wins Yale

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—A judicial recount has reversed the Sept. 30 provincial election result in Yale constituency and given an election victory to New Democratic Party candidate William Hartley over Social Credit incumbent Irvine Corbett.

County Court Judge F. K. Grimmitt said last night the recount gave Mr. Hartley 1,687 votes compared with 1,681 for Mr. Corbett.

Mr. Corbett immediately announced he would appeal.

Customer Unhappy

Compleat Interior Decorator

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—For a painter claiming 20 years experience, Wylie Hurst of nearby River Canard did an "incredibly bad job" for Mrs. Doreen Brown, also of River Canard.

He was hired to paint the interior of Mrs. Brown's house, and did just that. Included were walls, floors, ceilings, two chesters, a bed spread, the freezer, washer, drier, drapes, bedroom dresser, wall-to-wall carpeting in one room, two clocks and a kitchen pot.

After two days of listening to both sides of the story in magistrate's court, Judge Lawrence Deziel Wednesday awarded Mrs. Brown $300 damages.

She sued for $3,000, but testimony disclosed less damage was caused.

Hurst started work Feb. 17 of 1962 after Mrs. Brown paid him a $300 deposit. Mrs. Brown said each time she tried to stop the painter he told her she was seeing only a half-finished job.

"The quality of the work done by the defendant was incredibly bad," Judge Deziel said in answer to Hurst's counter-claim against Mrs. Brown for payment of the balance owing him for the job.

The magistrate said: "It would appear that what he has already received is substantially more than the work is worth."

The drilling was stopped at 190 feet and most of the day was spent fitting steel tubing inside the shafts. At nightfall, rescue workers poured cement around the their underground chambers while necessary precautionary measures were completed.

BOATING TRIP FATAL

Arthur Hemming

A 62-year-old Mill Bay man was found dead near his overturned boat on the west shore of Saanich Inlet at 7:30 a.m. yesterday.

Arthur Geydon Hemming, a civilian stationary engineer at the navy establishment at Colwood, was last seen alive by neighbors at dusk Tuesday.

"He was probably going out fishing for an hour or so," his son-in-law James Jarvie said last night. "He was due at work in Colwood at midnight."

ABOUT 12 HOURS

Three Bamberton cement works employees, arriving for work by water from Saanich, found the boat with the body nearby at the shoreline one-third of a mile south of Bamberton. Police said the body had been in the water about 12 hours.

Cause of death was thought to be exposure or drowning. Duncan coroner Dr. J. S. Goodbrand said an inquiry will be held.

ARM LOOPEL

When Mr. Hemming was found he had one arm looped through the bowline of the boat, police said.

A net, lifejacket and other contents were underneath the 10-foot fibreglass carport boat or floating in the water.

A three-horsepower motor was still attached to the boat and an oar lay on the shore above it.

Police believe the boat may have drifted ashore at high tide, caught on a rock and overturned as the tide receded.

The Hemmings moved to the Mill Bay waterfront from Victoria about three months ago.

Mr. Hemming was born in Leamington, England, and came to Canada at the age of six with his family. They lived in the east until 1959 when they moved to Alberni.

LOST IT IN FIRE

Mr. Hemming had his own sawmill there but lost it in a fire at the start of the depression. He came to Victoria in the 30's and worked for Crowe-Gomanson Lumber Co. until he went to the defence department about 10 years ago.

He was an enthusiastic hockey fan and loved camping and fishing.

SURVIVORS

Survivors are the widow, Beatrice, three daughters, Mrs. June Jarvie, 58; (Carey), Mrs. Laurin Grant, 50; and Mrs. Maureen, 40; and three grandchildren and his mother, Mrs. Violet Hemming, 3050 Chown Place in Victoria.

"We just finished celebrating his mother's 88th birthday," Mr. Jarvie said. "We were looking forward to seeing him again this weekend. His wife had gone to Queen's to visit their daughter there."

A firetruck was called out to assist, and the soldier was freed, carried to safety, and rushed to Naden Hospital, apparently suffering a broken ankle.

Police had no details at press time, but expect to question the soldier later today.

French Rocket 310 Miles Up

PARIS (UPI)—France announced Wednesday it fired a two-stage Dragon rocket 310 miles into space in a test conducted at its proving grounds on the Sahara desert. The missile weighed 2,205 pounds.

Alliance Saves Liberals

OTTAWA (CP)—A surprise Conservative move to kill key tax proposals in the government's economic program was blocked Wednesday by a voting alliance of Liberals, New Democrats, Social Crediters and Creditaires.

It was the 10th roll-call vote in the Commons on which the minority Liberal government has staked its life in a test of non-confidence.

FORCED VOTE

Former Finance Minister George Nowlan forced the vote by trying to halt second reading—approval in principle—of a government measure implementing the tax proposals announced by Finance Minister Gordon in his June 13 budget.

City Police, Firemen Save Man

Firemen and police joined forces early this morning to rescue an injured soldier jammed on the side of a downtown building about 10 feet from the ground.

First reports said a man had fallen from the Yates Hotel, and needed help.

Police turned out to find a man had fallen from a ledge about 30 feet above the ground on the Oddfellows' Hall, 1323 Douglas. He was jammed 12 feet below the ledge with his leg caught between a pipe and the wall. Police said he was screaming for help.

A firetruck was called out to assist, and the soldier was freed, carried to safety, and rushed to Naden Hospital, apparently suffering a broken ankle.

Police had no details at press time, but expect to question the soldier later today.

Impaired But Not Immobile

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—There are some things alcohol can't impair.

Harold P. Stark, 67, of Oshawa was fined $100 Tuesday for impaired driving, but police testified he passed one of their sobriety tests with ease.

Although he failed to walk a straight line, he did well at picking up items from the police station floor.

Plomer Charges Not Dismissed

EDMONTON (UPI)—Com the charges in Maclean's magazine MP Maxwell Lambert Wednesday denied that charges of espionage made by former navy controller Commodore James Plomer were dismissed by the Commons defence committee.

In a letter published in the Edmonton Journal, Mr. Lambert said "violent exception was taken" to the story by members of the committee.

"No such decision was arrived at," said Mr. Lambert.

Dockers, Weather Blamed For Flour Shipment Lag

VANCOUVER (CP)—Longshoremen and poor weather have been blamed for Vancouver running behind schedule in handling flour shipments to Russia.

One report said that few longshoremen are available with the port full of ships and that most are loading with only two or three gangs instead of five as ordered.

There was no immediate comment from port officials. Longshoremen took a stand that if additional gangs were recruited for peak periods, they would have to be heavily laid off during seasonal slacks, the report said.

The newspaper said when flour bound for Russia started moving out of the port, gangs loaded an average of 750 tons daily.

It compared Vancouver's figure with St. Lawrence, Quebec, claiming eastern workers load 1,500 tons daily. Wet weather was partly blamed for the west coast lag.

"The wheat board has committed Vancouver to load 400,000 tons of flour in the current crop year," the paper said.

"At the present rate, the total will be reached, but it will be no credit to the port's loading facilities."

PEINE, Germany (UPI)—Three miners, trapped 262 feet underground since last Thursday, learned Wednesday they must spend at least another night in their subterranean prison.

"It's so we can get you out safe and well," rescue workers told the trapped men through a telephone line.

After a pause of obvious disappointment, rescuers heard the men reply, "Oh...okay...that's okay."

Drilling has been stopped in the two 25-inch rescue shafts which have been steadily driving down to
